FEDERAL SUBSIDY TO AID BUILDING OF PEACE RIVER LINK IS URGED BY OLIVER

Would Support Ottawa Grant To C. P. R. or C. N. R. To Secure Construction of Northern Railway and Taking Over of P. G. E.; Bowser's Promises of Economy Spoiled By His Record, Premier Says

By Staff Representative

Agassiz, B.C., May 30.—That the Federal Government subsidize the Canadian Pacific Railway or the Canadian National Railways to build the Edmonton & Dunvegan Railway to Prince George and take over the Pacific Great Eastern Railway is the proposal which Premier Oliver will lay before the inter-provincial conference to be held this year to consider the Peace River transportation problem. The Premier outlined his subsidy plan in his speech here last night, adding that the extension of the Edmonton & Dunvegan road appeared to offer the only ray of hope in the whole P. G. E. situation.

"When the conference of representatives of the Federal Government, of the two transcontinental railway systems and of the British Columbia and Alberta Governments convenes, the Premier said, British Columbia will present a strong case in favor of the extension of the Edmonton and Dunvegan line, a case based on the best expert advice at our disposal," he said. "We do not care particularly whether the C.P.R. or the C.N.R. extends that railway to meet the P.G.E. We are concerned with two questions, the reduction of the present crushing burden of the P.G. E. and the provision of transportation facilities for the settlement of the Peace River country.

"To secure these results we are prepared to urge that a Federal Government subsidy be granted to the railway which would undertake this extension and operation of the P.G.E. on very generous terms. If either of the two transcontinental lines would assume the operation of the P.G.E. and part of its debt, I believe the people of this Province would support the release of the road as the very best way possible out of a costly blunder."

CONSERVATIVE RECORD

The Premier dealt with W. J. Bowser's promise of economic government. He stated that in the years 1913 and 1914 the Conservative Government had collected $10,479,000 and had spent $15,955,000, leaving a deficit of $5,475,000 The total deficits piled up by the Conservatives from 1911 to 1917, he declared, had totalled $19,810,894. The former Government's deficits had been incurred, Mr. Oliver stated, although enormous revenues had been collected from land sales. The revenue from these sales from 1910 to 1916 had totalled $11,121,456, while the Liberal Government had collected only $1,605,091 from this source from 1917 to 1922.

These facts, Mr. Oliver remarked, did not lend much weight to Mr. Bowser's promise of economy.

As another instance of Mr. Bowser's economy, the Premier pointed out that the cost of Royal Commissions from 1912 to 1916 had been $281,327, or a yearly average of $56,266, while from 1917 to 1923 the expense incurred for this purpose had been $57,055 or a yearly average of only $9,510.

The Premier found cause for amusement in his opponent's promise of lower taxation. The chief item in British Columbia's taxation to-day, he declared, was the P.G.E., which cost the taxpayers $2,500,000 a year. The P.G.E. was the child of the former Government and Mr. Bowser had promised the people the line would not cost them a dollar.

THE LAND POLICY

"When the Liberal Government came into power it was found that the most valuable lands had been alienated to speculators. One of the first things the Government did was to recover these lands, the Land Settlement Board was organized and started to get settlers established on those recovered choice lands."

Aid such as creamery financing was also extended to the settlers, and the returning soldiers were established in such settlements as Merville, which Mr. Clearihue admitted to have been costly, but considered eventually profitable to the Province by retaining on the land the most desirable type of citizen.

He touched upon the irrigation loans, amounting to about $3,000,000 an investment which Mr. Clearihue believed would be fully returned to the Government after having saved an important section of the Province's agriculture.

The speaker said the roads policy of the Government was to give every settler a roadway to enable him to get to market. Before the advent of the Liberal Government to power the roads were in charge of road

LIBERALS HAVE DONE GREAT WORK, CANDIDATES PROVE

Oak Bay Voters Keenly Appreciate Constructive Addresses at St. Mary's Hall

Liberal candidates received a cordial hearing last night at St. Mary's Hall, Oak Bay, when Joseph B. Clearihue, S. J. Drake, Dr. M. Raynor, assisted by H. C. Hall, K.C., outlined the Liberal policies. C. H. O'Halloran acted as chairman.

Joseph B. Clearihue stressed the development and administration of the natural resources of British Columbia as the chief factors of his address.

"Any policy adopted by any Government, must keep to the fore the fact that the Province is still in its pioneer days, and any development scheme must be progressive while keeping the resources out of the hand of the speculator" he said.

TO SPEAK PLAINLY ON WORLD COURT PLAN

Coolidge Says People of U.S. Should Not Becloud the Whole Proposal

Must be Prepared to Surrender Something For Benefits Received

Washington, May 30—Proposals for United States adherence to the world court contingent upon its dissociation from the League of Nations were spurned by President Coolidge in his Memorial Day address at Arlington as unworthy of American principles and traditions.

"If we receive anything we must surrender something," said the President. "We may as well face the question candidly and if we are willing to assume these new duties in exchange for the benefits which would accrue to us, let us say so. If we are not willing, let us say that."

He renewed his endorsement of the original Harding-Hughes world court plan and said he would not oppose reservations, but at the same time asserted that "any material changes which would not probably receive the consent of the many other nations would be impracticable."

DEFENCE OF U. S.

Warning was given by the President against leaving the country undefended, because history has shown "there have been and will be tendencies of one nation to encroach on another."

NEW EFFORT TO FIX THE IRISH BOUNDARY

British Premier, Craig and Cosgrave Will Confer at Chequers Court

Dominion Judges May Help Determine British Government's Powers

London, May 30.—Premier Macdonald has invited Sir James Craig and William Cosgrave, heads of the Northern and Southern Irish Governments, respectively, to spend the week-end at Chequers Court for further discussion of the Ulster boundary question, according to The Daily Mail, which adds that it is believed both will accept.

The questions involved in the boundary problem are so difficult, the newspaper says, that the Government will seek the advice of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, and probably Dominion judges will be asked to co-operate with British judges in deciding the powers of the British Government in the matter.

POSTPONE EMPIRE LABOR CONFERENCE

Leaders Find Political Situation in Several Countries Too Disturbed

London, May 30 (Canadian Press Cable)—The Empire Labor Conference will not be held in August as at first intended, but has been postponed indefinitely because of the political situation in different parts of the Empire where the Labor parties are more or less unsettled over general elections.

This is the case in South Africa and Newfoundland, while a general election in Australia is possible, with the Labor Party hopeful of recovering ground lost in the last federal election.

JAGGAR IS STUDYING KILAUEA ERUPTION

Noted Volcanologist is Now on Island of Hawaii; no Predictions Yet

Hilo, T.H., May —Professor J. A. Jaggar, noted volcandlogist, who made a hurried trip here from the continental United States to observe the activity of Kilauea, arrived yesterday and said to-day he could not make any prediction as to the volcano's behavior until he had put in several days in making observations. Professor Jaggar spent several years here studying the volcano some time ago.

The present situation in Kilauea is similar to that existing in Mount Vesuvius in 1906, the professor said. There has been no unusual activity in Kilauea since Professor Jaggar arrived.

Invisible Ray Defence Offered To Army of U.S.

New York, May 30.—The United States army has been offered a method of producing invisible rays capable of stopping aeroplanes in midair and automobiles, it is asserted by John H. Hamill, a British engineer, who says he represents a great German scientist. Hamill declares this scientist used the rays and caused French aeroplanes to descend in Bavaria last year.

ALDERMEN ENDEAVOR TO CHECK CRISIS IN FIREMEN'S DISPUTE; MASS MEETING AT PARK TO-NIGHT

An eleventh hour effort to save the serious consequences of increased fire insurance rates, or a collapse of the negotiations with the firemen, brought the aldermen into special session this afternoon. It was a sequel to the discussion of yesterday, reported in The Times. The Fire Chief has formally notified the council that he will close Catherine Street Hall should be be compelled to bring the Fire Department Hours of Labor Act, in operation without additional men.

Mayor Hayward has been invited to attend a mass meeting called at Songhees Park to protest the closing of the hall, at 7.30 o'clock this evening. If it should be as lively as that at Sapperton Park, New Westminster, when the Royal City council closed the Sapperton Fire Hall, under exactly similar conditions, the proceedings will not be dull.

The majority of aldermen, it was stated to-day, will accept some compromise, good up to December 31. By that time it is planned to present the facts to the Legislature for reconsideration.

SUPPORTS CHANGED BANK INSPECTION

General Manager of Royal Bank States Views to Commons Committee

Alberta M.P. Suggests Banks Post up Monthly Reports of Deposits and Loans

Ottawa, May 30—C. E. Neill, general manager of the Royal Bank and acting president of the Canadian Bankers' Association, chief witness before the House Banking and Commerce Committee to-day, said he had already stated before the shareholders of his bank that he would be only too glad to submit to any reasonable inspection, by the Government or otherwise, as long as it was efficient.

In reply to questions he said he did not consider the liabilities of Canadian banks excessive in proportion to capital. As to the value of bank buildings as an asset in case of failure, he expressed the view that what could be recovered would not be nearly as much as had been invested.

TRANSFER OF DEPOSITS

W. C. Good, Progressive member for Brant, Ontario, started a discussion by questioning Mr. Neill regarding the transfer of deposits from smaller to larger banks.

"Do you think it well to discuss this?" asked the witness.

Hon. H. H. Stevens, Conservative, Vancouver Centre, thought such a discussion a "frightful injustice to the smaller banks."

Mr. Good, to bring the matter to a conclusion, asked if Mr. Neill had any proposal to make "to save banks in danger of disaster through no fault of their own."

Again Mr. Stevens protested.

"Hear, hear," said Hon. J. A. Robb, Acting Minister of Finance."

"I can not admit there is any danger," said Mr. Neill.

SAVINGS GUARANTEED

Mr. Neill told L. J. Ladner, Conservative, South Vancouver, that a guarantee of savings deposits up to $4,000 would be impracticable and misleading. He added that an examination of the accounts of six banks indicated that accounts up to $3,000 constituted seventy-five to eighty per cent. of all savings deposits.

Appeal Against Divorce Decree in Britain is Won

London, May 30.—The House of Lords to-day granted the appeal of the Hon. Mrs. John Russell from the divorce decree awarded after a jury trial in March, 1923, to her husband, the Hon. John Russell, heir of Lord Ampthill.

The House adopted Lord Birkenhead's motion to the effect that the court findings taht she was guilty of misconduct with an unknown man, alleged to be the father of her youngest child, and the consequent divorce could not stand.

Mrs. Russell's claim that her husband was a somnambulist was a novel feature of the case that has caused it to be widely followed.

Head of Salvation Army Arrives on Round-the-World Tour

GENERAL W. BRAMWELL BOOTH

REDISTRIBUTION OF POPULATION IS VITAL TO EMPIRE

Message of General Bramwell Booth After Recent Tours

Head of Salvation Army Arrived Here This Morning On Niagara

"The greatest problem in the British Empire to-day is that of a redistribution of population," said General W. Bramwell Booth, head of the Salvation Army, on his arrival here to-day from Australia on the liner Niagara.

"After an extensive visit in India last year, and my recent tour of Australasia, I am more than ever impressed with the essential necessity of moving the surplus population of some parts of our empire to those sections where the only inhabitants are gophers and rabbits. There is such a large part of the British Empire where the barren land may be made productive by a limited expense, through irrigation, and nothing has impressed me more in this vist to Australasia as the extent of territory on that border line which may feed the teeming population of the Old Country.

"While I learned last year that the vast bulk of our Indian fellow citizens are ready to work out their political salvation under the Union Jack, and that agitators are more noisy than numerous, it is for them we must find homes elsewhere, as well as for our surplus in the British Isles. What is to happen to the masses of India, educated more and more away from insanitary conditions, with famine conditions migated, and the increase of population larger than ever before? We must, as Britons, face that issue. The political progress is undoubted and I speak not as a politician, but as a citizen,— but we must face the economic development with equal candor and decsion. Perhaps it is in irrigation that the salvation of our people in the arid parts of the Empire rests."

PLACE OF THE ARMY

"To my friends who are not of the Salvation Army, and I am thankful to say the work is growing daily, I am glad to say the work is growing daily, and the public sympathy to our movement is more remarkable as the years go on. I am sorry that our visit to Canada is so short on this occasion, and will present us seeing many of our friends."

WIDE TOUR

The General on this occasion left London on February 7, accompanied by Commissioner H. W. Mapp, traveling international secretary, Adjutant Wycliffe Booth, and Brigadier J. E. Smith, his prvate secretary. They proceeded direct to Columbo, where they held a conference of workers in Southern India and Ceylon. They reached Freemantle on March 4, and in spite of the fact that the visits to Western and South Australia synchronized with the arrival of the

OTTAWA AWAITING WORD PIRATES IN CHINA HAVE RELEASED MISSIONARIES

Ottawa, May 30.—The Government is awaiting the result of representations made yesterday afternoon to the United States authorities at Washington and the Colonial Office in London, in regard to the capture of R. A. Jaffray, Canadian head of the Christian Missionary Alliance at Wuchow, by Chinese pirates.

Premier King, on receipt of the news that Mr. Jaffray, in company with three other missionaries, had been carried off, wired London and Washington requesting that everything be done to obtain release of the captives. No word has yet been received from the British or United States Government in answer to the communication from Ottawa.

London, May 30.—The British Government has instructed its Minister at Peking to make the strongest possible representations to the Chinese Foreign Office in order to effect the release of Rev. R. A. Jaffray, Canadian head of the Christian Missionary Alliance of Wuchow, Kwangsi Province, China. E. H. Carne, Australian missionary and two United States missionaries, captured by Chinese pirates near Chenping.

USING SPEED OF BOAT AS EVIDENCE

Washington Police Officials Accuse Four Tacomans of Anacortes Bank Robbery

Four Men in Fast Motor Craft Called at Nanaimo For Repairs

Mount Vernon, Wash., May 30—A search of the history of the four prominent Tacomans accused of the $18,000 Anacortes bank robbery of April 14 and further efforts to trace the loot are engaging the attention of Sheriff C. R. Conn.

At the same time the sheriff is checking up information given him by British Columbia authorities, which he expects will break down the alibi of the four suspects, now free on $25,000 bail, who claim they were in Seymour Narrows, 200 miles from Anacortes, at the hour of the robbery.

In checking up the accused men's alibi the sheriff is said to have learned that the motor-boat Doreen was actually in Nanaimo, B.C., on the day of the robbery and at a shipyard there.

FASTEST ON SOUND

"That doesn't spoil the state's case," said the sheriff. "That boat is the fastest on Puget Sound. In it they could run from Anacortes to Tacoma in four hours. So, too, they could be in Nanaimo the day of the robbery and still have staged the hold-up."

NAVAL RESERVISTS

The accused men are: Russell E. Evans, president of a Tacoma company making fruit jars, formerly a captai nin the intelligence division of the navy, and still a member of the Naval Resreve.

David W. Nadeau, a certified public accountant, and secretary of the Tacoma Lion's Club.

Lawrence H. Lee, a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Master of a lodge of Masons in Tacoma.

Warren H. Ridley, a brother-in-law of Nadeau.

REPAIRED AT NANAIMO

Nanaimo, B.C., May 30.—A speed boat named Doreen called at the Cowie Machine Works here on the evening of April 12, with a broken propeller shaft. The repairs were completed on the following moring. There were four men in the boat, it is said, who stated they were on a hunting trip and were going into Alaskan territory. In the boat, under a canvas hutch, were two hunting dogs.

U.S. AIRMEN HOPE TO FLY TO-MORROW

World Aviators Plan to Make Kasumigaura-Kushimoto-Kagoshima Jump

Two Long-Distance Portuguese Fliers Leave India For China

Kasumigaura, Japan, May 30—The United States round-the-world fliers still hope to get away to-morrow on the next leg of their flight, though possibly they will not be able to do so until Sunday. They hope to make two jumps the day they leave here, going to Kushimoto to refuel and thence on to Kagoshima, their last stopping place in Japan, before darkness.

The Americans to-day witnessed the fatal fall of one of the Japanese aviators stationed at this naval aviation base. The flier, piloting a Japanese naval plane of the Avro type, was up some distance when the plane's fuel tank exploded and the machine crashed on the shore of the lagoon here.

The thirteen United States destroyers which will be stationed between Kasumigaura and Shanghai, to aid the fliers in case of need, are taking their places along the Japanese coast line and a chain across the China Sea, between Kagoshima and the Chinese port, to-day.

PORTUGUESE PROCEED

London, May 30—Lieuts. Paes and Beiros, who are attempting a flight from Lisbon to Macao, China, and who crashed several weeks ago in a storm near Papir, in Jodhpur, have purchased a new aeroplane and have left for China, according to a news agency dispatch from Lahore, British India.

ROTARY DELEGATION FROM NEW ZEALAND HERE ON NIAGARA

Is Headed by Hon. George Fowlds, Former Minister

Local Rotarians Welcome Auckland Visitors

On their way to the International Rotary convention at Toronto, commencing on June 16, Hon. George Fowlds, for several years a member of the New Zealand Cabinet, and many years representative of one of the Auckland divisions in the House of Representatives, headed the Auckland delegation here.

The delegation arrived on the liner Niagara this morning from New Zealand.

Mr. and Mrs. Rowlands left the boat at Honolulu for San Francisco, and Mr. and Mrs. Lowe preseded them by an earlier sailing. With Mr. Fowlds were Mrs. Fowlds and Miss Lamb, Mr. and Mrs. A. Hutchinson and John Seabrook.

They were met by James H. Beatty, president; Capt. T. J. Goodlake, secretary; James Hunter, F. J. Sehl and J. H. Fletcher, on behalf of the local Rotary Club.

Mr. Fowlds, who was the first president of the Auckland Rotary Club, and is the Rotary Commissioner for New Zealand, said Rotary was making great growth in the Dominion.

Speaking of business conditions in the Dominion, Mr. Fowlds, who is the head of a large business in Auckland, said the country was just beginning to recover from the war inflation, followed by the corresponding depression which was almost inevitable owing to the tremendous demand for foodstuffs and wool in the war years, and then the collapse when the demand failed.

Mr. Fowlds is well-known in Victoria, as throughout the North American continent, for his championship of the single tax movement and of the prohibition cause. Asking some questions with regard to the recession from single tax in British Columbia, Mr. Fowlds expressed the opinion that he realt yinflation was bound to leave a reaction hostile to the single tax movement, though not due to it.

Mr. Fowlds, after the convention, will return through the United States to San Francisco, addressing a number of meetings. He is not expected back in New Zealand until next October.

NOT ABANDONING MILITARY CONTROL

Ambassadors Inform Germany Allied Commission is to Continue Its Duties

Not Time Yet For League of Nations to Act in Republic

London, May 30—The Allies intend to keep a firm hand on military control in Germany by maintaining the Commission of Control in full operation until the disarmament demands made in the Treaty of Versailles are fully executed, according to a long statement from the Council of Ambassadors sent to Berlin from Paris to-day.

The Ambassadors' communique was in reply to the German note of March 31, in which the Berlin Government maintained it was time for the League of Nations to take supervision. The Ambassadors' note reaffirms the contention that it is the legal right of the Allies to decide for themselves when the time has arrived for transferring the duty of controlling German armaments to the League, after the time limit clauses have been executed.

"It would be hardly possible to contend that this condition is fulfilled to-day," the note adds.

ACTION DEMANDED BEFORE MONEY VOTE

British Liberals Insist Labor Government Deal With Unemployment

Ready to Delay Appropriation Asked For the Ministry of Labor

London, May 30.—The Liberal lobbyists are at pains to explain that Mr. Lloyd George's abstention from voting in the House of Commons last night, when the Labor Government was enabled to stand against the Conservative attack on a motion to reduce Tom Shaw's salary as Minister of Labor by £100 a year, does not imply a split among the Liberals. The lobbyists say Mr. Lloyd George had a long standing engagement for last night which, however, he offered to break if his vote was especially desired.

They admit, however, that Mr. Lloyd George at a preliminary meeting was in favor of the Liberals either voting against the Government or at least abstaining, but say that at the second meeting, after Premier MacDonald's pronouncement in the House that in the event of a defeat the Government would go to the country in a general election, he declared himself in sympathy with Mr. Asquith's advice not to vote against the Government.

WARNING GIVEN

The Liberals emphasize that although they refused to help the Conservatives reduce Mr. Shaw's salary, they have not assented to the appropriation for the Ministry of Labor, which is yet to be passed upon by the Commons, and declare they intend to hold up the appropriation until the Government has made good along the lines of Premier MacDonald's speech, in which he outlined the Government's plans for dealing with unemployment.

Mr. MacDonald declared it was impossible for any Government in the brief space of four months to have carried out large productive schemes of electrification, afforestation and other development, but said he would test the sincerity of the opposition by introducing a bill to take compulsory powers for afforestation. He said he would treat the vote as a question of confidence, and would be quite ready to meet his opponents on the platforms of the country.

100 LIBERALS VOTED

The Government's majority last night was forty-eight, the vote being 300 to 252. One hundred Liberals voted with the Government and thirty abstained from voting.

THE LAST TIME

The Westminster Gazette, Liberal, says editorially:

"The Government's plea that it has yet not had time to deal with unemployment has served for the last time. Should the Liberals' confidence be again deceived, MacDonald must take the consequences."

SUPPORTS CHANGED BANK INSPECTION

AT HEAD OFFICES

Mr. Neill told Mr. Stevens he believed a competent Government officer could tell from examination of the head office of a bank whether the bank was solvent. A competent official should be a man with banking experience both in branch banks and at a head office.

Mr. Stevens cited a statement by John S. Williams, former Comptroller of the currency at Washington, that the Federal Reserve system had since its inception earned profits of $135,000,099 for the United States Government.

Had the Government of Canada received any similar return from the Finance Act he asked.

INTEREST RECEIVED

"Yes," replied Mr. Neill, "the interest received by the Federal Government on advances made under the Finance Act since 1914 was $15,297,000."

The witness told Mr. Stevens that he believed there was need in Canada for long term credits. The banks at present could not supply this need. Government action, he had already advised his shareholders, would be necessary. The banks, he believed, would heartily co-operate.

TWO AMENDMENTS

Ottawa, May 30.—Two proposed ameddments to the Bank Act were put before the House Committee on Banking and Commerce to-day by C. G. Goote, Progressive, Macleod, Alberta.

The first is that notice should be displayed in each bank warning the public that the Government does not assume any responsibility for deposits. The other is a requirement that each bank shall post up in its premises within the first fifteen days of each month, a statement of the deposits and loans outstanding at the end of the preceding month.

REDISTRIBLTION OF POPULATION IS VITAL TO EMPIRE

British Special Service Squadron, they had wonderful receptions. Not only did the General wish to discuss with the Australian governments inter-imperial settlement, but he desired to see how the plan of organization of the Salvation Army work in Australia was working out in connection with the division of the commands in that country between a southern and eastern section. They visited Melbourne, Sydney, and Brisbane in turn, feeling rather the moist heat of Queensland at that time of year, and then crossed to the North Island of New Zealand, Auckland Wellington, and other places were visited, and wonderful receptions given to the General.

The Canadian Pacific Railway sent A. MacMillan from Montreal to meet the General and conduct him to Quebec, from where he will sail next Wednesday for the Old Country on the liner Empress of Scotland.

IN GOOD HEALTH

The General is in good health, although he has been working very hard all the time, and maintained an office on board. His kindly smile, and cheery manner remained the interviewer of that family trait which General William Booth handed on to his industrious family. Many Salvationists met the General at the liner, to give him a welcome to British Columbia.

TO END CONTROL

The Allies intend to end the military control as soon as possible, says the note, which urges acceptance to the general inspection contemplated by the Allied note of March 5, which would consist of a series of visits. This inspection would be completed within three or four months if it me t with no obstruction and if no grave infraction of the treaty's clause were discovered.

Replying eo the German claim that the Allies themselves had recognized that apart from five specified categories Germany has fulfilled her disarmament obligations,- the Ambassadors' not says the Allied Governments never expressed such an opinion.

It points out that in the British House of Commons the Government made certain declarations regarding German disarmament, but that these declarations were not intended to imply that Germany had fulfilled her obligations. They merely indicated that certain clauses at one time appeared to have been carried out.

RESPONSIBILITY THEIRS

If more than four years after the enforcement of the treaty, Germany is still obliged to undergo investigations by an inter-Allied commission, responsibility for the situation rests only on herself, says the note.

If there had not been systematic obstruction, of which the Allies had many times complained, the operations of disarmament would have been completed long ago.

The Ambassadors say they feel called upon to define for the last time the conditions of the problem, which allows of only one or two solutions:

First—Either the German Government will accept the general inspection desired by the Allies, and at the end of this inspection, if the results are satisfactory, the military control will be limited to five points, or,

Second—Germany will persist in refusing the Allied offer upon which the Allies will demand strict application of the treaty.

EARLY ANSWER

The Ambassadors concluded their note courteously, saying that from every point of view, the present situation, which is a source of constant difficulty, can not be further prolonged, and the Allies hope the German Government understands that it is in the general interest to arrive at a definite solution without delay. Therefore, the note adds, a favorable answer, saying Germany accepts the proposals of the present note as regards a general inspection and the consequent limitation of control, is expected before June 30.

CHURCH UNION DELAY IS DISAPPOINTMENT

Sentiment of Methodists Voiced by Rev. Dr. Chown, General Superintendent

Niagara Falls, Ont., May 30—That the chiefs of the Methodist Church are becoming impatient with the delay in bringing church union into effect was indicated by the criticism voiced by Rev. Dr. Chown, General Superintendent of the Methodist Church in Canada, when addressing the annual Hamilton Methodist Conference, which opened here yesterday.

Dr. Chown condemned the action of the Private Bills Committee of the House of Commons in amending the Church Union Bill to call for a ruling on the legality of the measure. He felt this would cause a delay of from two to six years and would work great damage to the cause of the Lord. The Methodist Church had been patient enough, he said, and would not stand for further dallying.

REV. DR. CHOWN

"It will be impossible to hold the Methodist Church much longer," he added, expressing fear there was danger of independent local churches in the West forming new church bodies among themselves.

GRAIN SUIT FOR SUM OF $275,000

Action Being Heard in Winnipeg Involves Elevator and Cargo For Ships

Winnipeg, May 30 (Canadian Press)—An action connected with the Pollock "cargo" mentioned at the Royal Grain Inquiry Commission sessions in Vancouver was commenced in the courts here yesterday against J. L. Davidson, J. R. Smith and the London Guarantee and Accident Co. Limited, by the N. Bawlf Grain Co., the Washburn-Crosby Co., and Dr. R. Magill, secretary of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, in which the sum of $275,000 is claimed.

In September, 1921, the Davidson and Smith firm, operators of an elevator at Port Arthur, put up a bond, secured from the London Guarantee and Accident Co., of $275,000, with the Grain Exchange to have their elevtor declared "regular," which brought them under the by-laws, rules and regulations of the exchange and permitted them to issue warehouse receipts.

WHEAT IN ELEVATOR

The plaintiffs, in their statement of claim, say they delivered 100,000 bushels of No. 3 Northern wheat to the elevator of the defendants, Davidson and Smith, and held warehouse receipts for that quantity. On July 22, 1922, the plaintiffs instructed the defendants to deliver the wheat called for in the receipts to the steamship Pollock for transportation to the United States. It is alleged the elevator company failed or neglected to deliver the said wheat or any quantity of wheat of the grade and kind called for, but, instead, delivered No. 4 tough.

It is alleged the defendants refused or neglected to pay the plaintiffs $39,985, the difference in the price of the grade supplied and the grain delivered, when ordered to do so by the Grain Exchange Council.

OFFERED TO RELOAD

The defendants deny all the material allegations. They declare their offer to reload the Pollock with No. 3 wheat was refused, and that the plaintiffs obtained a certificate from the Federal Government inspectors grading the wheat sent forward as No. 3 Northern and are on that ground estopped from alleging that the grain was any other than that called for in the certificate.

The hearing is continuing to-day.

DAILY PAPERS ARE BOND IN CANADA

Strongest Link Between East And West, Says E. Norman Smith

Edmonton, May 30.—The daily newspaper is the most practicable way in which the East and West can become one in ideas and spirit, according to E. Norman Smith of Ottawa, president of the Canadian Press Limited, who spoke at a dinner given the visiting members of the Canadian Press and the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association here last night.

The visitors were entertained throughout the day with motor trips, golf and a luncheon and a dance following the dinner. They left shortly before midnight for Jasper Park.

The Canadian Press delegates and the Daily Newspapers Association delegates will hold their annual meetings in Vancouver and then come to Victoria for a brief visit. They will arrive in the city June 7 and leave again for Vancouver and the East June 8.

BISHOP ON TRIAL IN CITY OF CLEVELAND

Rt. Rev. W. M. Brown Before Protestant Episcopal Church Court

Cleveland, Ohio, May 30.—Arguments were again in prospect when the trial of Bishop William M. Brown of the Protestant Episcopal Church was resumed here to-day. The defence was in the midst of a motion to dismiss for want of evidence. The motion came yesterday immediately after the church advocate had rested his case on brief testimony.

Only one witness, Bishop Francis of Indianapolis, was called to the stand and he testified merely that he had sat with the defendant in the House of Bishops.

Italian King and Queen Return Home From Great Britain

London, May 30.—The departure of the Italian sovereigns for Rome last evening was the occasion for great demonstrations, not only by the Italian colony, but by the general public. Large crowds gathered to cheer King Victor Emmanuel, Queen Helena, the Prince of Piedmont and Princess Mafalda as they left Buckingham Palace, and at Victoria Station, where members of the British Royal family gathered to bid them farewell. The British party included King George, Queen Mary, the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York, Prince Henry, Prince George, Princess Beatrice and Princess Louise.

The platform from which the Italian sovereigns departed was carpeted and decorated with red and white roses and the national flags of Italy and Great Britain. A detachment of 100 uniformed Fascisti was drawn up in double rank on the platform as a guard of honor.

PREMIER STRONGER THAN EVER

NO one who has traveled through British Columbia during the last two weeks can doubt seriously that the Oliver Government will be returned at the June election. It is probable that Mr. Bowser himself, after looking over the situation in the Interior, forsees the defeat of his party. Of course, Mr. Bowser comes home from his election tours and tells the newspapers that he will have a big majority in the next Legislature—but Mr. Bowser was going to have a big majority in the 1916 election and a still bigger majority in the 1920 election.

Whatever Mr. Bowser may think and whatever he may say from now until election day, it is certain that followers of his party throughout the Interior do not hope to win under his leadership. The most that the rank and file of the Conservative Party in the Mainland ridings of the Province expect is a slight increase in their strength in the Legislature. Never since its formation in British Columbia has the Conservative Party entered an election campaign so hopelessly divided as it is to-day—divided by complete lack of any constructive policy, divided by opposition to Mr. Bowser, and divided by the loss of many of its oldest adherents to General McRae's party.

While Premier Oliver's present tour of the Province has been more successful than the most optimistic Liberals had anticipated, Mr. Bowser's reception has been depressing. Many people have turned out to hear Mr. Bowser, but scant enthusiasm has greeted the Conservative leader.

The reasons for this rather striking contrast are not far to seek. After leading the Government of British Columbia for nearly eight arduous years, Mr. Oliver is stronger to-day than he has ever been. Mr. Bowser knows that. The Conservative Party knows it. The Premier's personal hold on the electors is the most obvious fact in the whole political situation.

Crowded meetings in every riding — a gathering of 2,000 people in the little town of Penticton, the centre of a Conservative stronghold—offers of support from former enemies who are disgusted with the internal squabblings of the Conservative Party—all these indicate that the people of British Columbia look upon Mr. Oliver as the one man who understands their problems and can cope with them successfully. They know they cannot afford to drop the Premier.

On the other hand, Mr. Bowser's appeal has been a disappointment even to his friends. In place of policies, Mr. Bowser offers abuse; in place of constructive plans for the betterment of conditions in British Columbia he continues his old, worn-out attacks on the Government; in place of hope for the future he spreads about whispers of black despair. Altogether Mr. Bowser's speeches have visualized British Columbia as already in its coffin and only awaiting Mr. Bowser's kindly auspices to lay it away permanently.

In the course of the tour which he will conclude in Vancouver to-night, Mr. Oliver has wisely left abuse to Mr. Bowser, who is a master of that somewhat doubtful art. Instead, the Premier has given the electors a simple, reasoned outline of the policies upon which he stands or falls. And since he has gone into the heart of the country and talked these matters over with the electors, frankly, bluntly and without rash promises of any kind, the strength of the Government has greatly increased.

TOWNSHEND'S MILITARY RECORD

THE Toronto Star says that slurs, cast on the military record of General Townshend since his death a few days ago, are unfair to the memory of a gallant and capable British officer who saw service in the Soudan, Egypt, India, South Africa and Mesopotamia.

Townshend never was in command of the British officers operating in Mesopotamia. He was subordinate to General Nixon or some other officer at all times. He showed good strategy in the attacks he made against the Turks, and it was not his fault if the successes he achieved led the Indian and Home Governments to embark with inadequate resources on more ambitious plans than those first adopted.

Originally, the Mesopotamian campaign was intended to safeguard the Anglo-Persian oil wells and to protect India from an extension eastward of Turkish influence. That purpose having been attained, General Nixon proposed and carried through an advance to Kut-el-Amara, 180 miles farther up the Tigris.

After the capture of Kut, the British Government was eager to display some spectacular success in Mesopotamia in order to offset disappointments elsewhere. It asked Nixon if he could not take Bagdad. Nixon expressed the belief that he could capture the place, but could not hold it. The British authorities ordered the advance to be made, knowing that the troops would have to retreat as rapidly as they had advanced. It happened that the Turks were reinforced so speedily that Townshend, the commander in the field, had to retreat in great haste when almost within sight of Bagdad.

The blundering of the home authorities up to this point was bad enough, but worse was to come. Orders were given to Townshend to remain at Kut and await the arrival of relief forces. In compliance therewith, Townshend shipped his sick, wounded and cavalry downstream and submitted to a siege.

It was the business of the home authorities and Indian Government to raise the siege. For six months British forces struggled towards Kut against unexpected difficulties. Finally, Townshend had to surrender with his 8,000 half-starved soldiers. Twenty-four thousand casualties had been suffered by the relief forces in their vain efforts.

The Kut disaster was quickly avenged. General Maude, who was long a familiar figure in Canada, recaptured the town and swept on to Bagdad, since which time the "city of the caliphs" has been under British control.

General Townshend was given a knighthood and elected a member of Parliament on his return home after the war. But if he had not been set an impossible task by his superiors, he might have reached greater honors and his military capacity would have been unquestioned in the hour of his death.

CAMPAIGNING IN SAANICH

MR. POOLEY is pretending to be having a wonderful time with figures showing the road-building appropriations in the various constituencies of the Province. He argues that Saanich has been discriminated against because the Government has spent more money on the roads of Delta than it has in Saanich and that therefore Saanich should vote out Mr. Pauline because he was not able to grab more from the "public treasure bag," as he calls it.

To Mr. Pooley politics seems to be a game of grab, and the best representative a district can have is the one who has the longest reach into the public treasure bag. Mr. Pooley is apparently still living politically in the happy hunting days of the McBride-Bowser regime when it was not necessary to have even a long reach to get into the public treasure bag.

In the last four years, $1,387,471 has been spent on the roads of Delta. Mr. Pooley knows why this money was spent, but he is apparently not anxious to be fair about it. The money was spent to put through the Pacific Highway from Vancouver to the international boundary line, so that motorists would have a paved road from California right into Vancouver, and because of it not terminate their tours at Seattle, as many did before the B.C. highway was paved, but come into British Columbia.

Would Mr. Pooley not have had this highway constructed, or does he think the Government did not get full value for the money spent? He has had no criticism to make on either of these points. Then what is the use of him talking nonsense out in Saanich simply because he considers it is a rural constituency and he thinks he can get away with it.

Although it is longer and involved more difficult construction, Delta has got no more than Saanich has in the paved road which connects this city with the Pacific Highway by means of the ferries at Sidney. Pavement of this Island road was completed by the Government as soon as the ferry services were permanently established. Since then the Government has been aiding the Saanich municipality, which controls the roads there, to complete the paving of the West Saanich Road as far as Butchart's.

From the way he talks to them, Mr. Pooley is not very complimentary to the intelligence of the people of Saanich.

Dr. Frank Crane On "The Dawes Plan"

(Copyright)

GERMANY has agreed to co-operate with the report of the committee of experts as a "practical basis for a speedy solution of the reparations problem."

This is encouraging.

France, Great Britain and Belgium have already agreed. Italy, at this writing, is on the point of promising agreement and there is every surface indication for optimism.

Moreover, M. Barthou, president of the Reparations Commission, says:

"The solution of the reparations problem appears to be in a fair way of accomplishment. There are excellent reasons to be optimistic although the difficulties are as yet far from being solved."

What the Dawes plan is does not matter. The main thing is for the nations to get together and it seems that the committee's conclusion will furnish that excuse.

They probably had to swing apart for a certain length of time until political motives had exhausted themselves. Until, indeed, the various Governments had discovered that the policy of isolation on the part of any one of them was disastrous.

Germany found it out when many of her people were unemployed and still more were hungry.

France found it out when the franc began to caper nimbly after the mark.

This report will be transmitted to the United States Government with a recommendation for approval and adherence. What the United States will do is problematical, but it is not among the possibilities that it will allow itself to be drawn into the development and execution of any plan as a Government.

The German people are not likely to give an adverse vote on co-operation with the Allies. Neither are the French people likely to report adversely. In fact, the report of this committee gives the hope required for all the European Governments to behave themselves, as the indications are that the United States of America will not join in any European affairs until Europe has made up its mind to act reasonably. To be sure, M. Poincare has reiterated his determination to hold fast to the Ruhr and to retire from there only in proportion to the payments made by Germany. To be sure there is material for trouble in this ticklish situation. If this can be carried on without further bad blood between France and Germany, if the total amount of Germany's reparation debt can be fixed and if the people will go resolutely toward paying the reparations, there is little doubt but that the United States will co-operate.

If this co-operation is secured there can be little doubt that there is the beginning of the end of Europe's troubles.

Canadians Meet Reverse, But Invasion Halted

IMMEDIATELY after the capture by the British of the United States port Oswego, on Lake Ontario, Sir James Yeo, youthful commander of the British fleet on the lake, having landed the victorious troops and the captured stores and ordnance at Kingston, sailed out again and, by May 19, was blockading Sackett's Harbor, the main United States base on Lake Ontario. Here there were United States warships under construction which, if completed and equipped, might flamage British supremacy on the lake, newly re-established this Spring. Much of the tackle and ordnance for these ships was at Oswego Falls, about a dozen miles inland from Oswego, removed there when the British had taken that place three weeks before. Captain Wolsey of the United States fleet was charged with the delicate operation of stealthily conveying this material in small boats down the Oswego River and along the shore of Lake Ontario to Stoney Creek, three miles west of Sackett's Harbor. Thence it was to be moved overland to the shipyards.

On the evening of May 28, Captain Wolsey stole out of the Oswego into Lake Ontario with nineteen boats deep-laden with guns, spars and tackle. They carried twenty-two 32-pound long naval guns, ten 24-pound and three 42-pound carronades (a kind of naval howitzer) and other equipment. Aboard there were one hundred and thirty soldiers as guard. Indians had been arranged for at the mouth of the Big Salmon River to come to the assistance of the convoy in case of attack from Sir James Yeo's vessels.

Captain Wolsey was discovered by the British patrol on May 29 and ran for the nearest shelter, which was the mouth of Big Sandy Creek. Eighteen of his boats got safely up the river. One was captured by the pursuing British with its load of guns and tackle.

SIR JAMES YEO detailed two captains, Popham and Spilsbury, with one hundred and seventy-five marines and bluejackets on two gunboats and five barges to hunt the eighteen boats out of Sandy Creek, if possible. This narrow and deep-running stream flows through a level country, then covered with forest. It was the morning of May 30 when this little flotilla steered into Sandy Creek and advanced until the commanders decided action ashore was necessary to obviate surprise by ambush. The marines were landed on one bank and the bluejackets on the other, and they moved upward abreast of each other through the underbrush to clear it of lurking enemies. This strategy was no doubt correct, but the force was quite inadequate. Both the little parties walked unwitting into a circle of more than three times their number of hidden Americans and Indians, for Captain Wolsey had been heavily reinforced overnight. They were cut to pieces. Not a man escaped. Eighteen were killed, fifty wounded and the rest could only surrender.

It was a serious reverse, small as was the number engaged, due entirely to over confidence and rash enterprise. It did not immediately affect the blockade, but, from the small number of trained sailors and marines on the greatly undermanned British vessels not a man could easily be spared, and the loss of these was acutely felt. Sir James Yeo still kept Chauncey and his fleet moved up, and though eventually the United States ships did get their equipment, the British fleet had maintained such control of Lake Ontario as to render useless the Spring advance of the Americans into the Niagara Peninsula after the taking of Fort George.

CHINAMAN KILLED AT CEMENT PLANT

Gar Nyet Presumed to Have Been Drawn Into the Machinery

Becoming entangled in machinery, a Chinaman, lost his life at the Bamberton plant of the B.C. Cement Company this morning. The man had been working around the machinery, helping a white employee on the night shift, just preparatory to leaving for the day.

The white employee left the scene to get some material and when he returned the Chinaman had disappeared. A few moments later his body was found in the machinery. It had been drawn in by belting, it is presumed, though as the accident was not witnessed it is not known just how the tragedy took place.

Officers of the Provincial Police were notified at once and left for the scene to bring back the body. An inquest will be held at the Thomson Funeral premises to-morrow morning.

POOLEY'S IGNORANCE

To the Editor:—May I be permitted to report some statements made at the Conservative meeting last evening in reference to the policy outlined by the candidate Hon. T. G Coventry and Bowser's chief lieutenant, C. E. Pooley.

Providing the Conservative party is returned to power, Pooley, speaking for the Conservative party and their policy, emphatically stated that they would stop the export of logs to the United States, and as their party had ten years ago fixed a standard price on timber royalty for forty years, and, as the first revision upward would be in 1925 the Conservative party would collect ($2,000,000) two million dollars additional from the timber holders of British Columbia in addition to the present revenue collected by the Oliver Government.

Present revenue collected last fiscal year from the timber industry, according to government reports, was $3,550,000. With the conservative policy of an additional $2,000,000 filched out of the timbermen of British Columbia, there would be contributed $5,550,000, over five and a half million dollars.

These two worthies roundly condemned the Oliver Government for excessive taxation, but apparently had no hesitation to tax the hard pushed license holders of timber limits another $2,000,000. Pooley was particularly bitter against timber men from the United States exporting logs from British Columbia.

The Legislature of British Columbia had no authority to impose a duty on crown granted timber being exported in the log, and Mr. Pooley was checked up short on that point by a timberman present in the audience, a controversy over that point brought out many points not particularly favorable to Pooley's attitude on that question. A few more speeches on the policy advocated by the Government candidate, and his ignorance of facts concerning questions of moment effecting economic questions as outlined at his meeting in Tillicum will not bring him much support from Ward Seven.

OLDEST CATHOLIC PRELATE VISITS

Archbishop Redwood, of Wellington, Has Been Honored in Rome

The oldest Bishop in the Catholic Church, in perfof consecration, Most Rev. Francis M. Redwood, Archbishop of Wellington, New Zealand, arrived in Victoria this morning on the liner Niagara.

Dr. Redwood, who was consecrated Bishop of Wellington in 1874 and became Archbishop in 1887, recently celebrated his jubilee at Wellington, when twenty-four bishops attended to mark the occasion. He was born in 1839 and is now in his eighty-sixth year. His parents took him out to New Zealand from England at the age of three, so that his life covers the whole period of white settlement in the Dominion. After his education in Europe he returned to the Roman Catholic priesthood in his adopted country, and has been at the head of his church there for half a century.

His Holiness has honored him with appointment to the pontifical household, and he also holds the rank of Count.

Archbishop Redwood is able to take his long walks still. He made inquiries about Bishop O'Donnell, whose national work has made him a well-known figure throughout English-speaking Catholicism. His Grace is now on his way to Rome.

Washington, May 30.—The Treasury would be directed under a bill passed by the Senate yesterday to complete the purchase of stores of domestic silver covered in the Pittman Act. Winner Averaged 98.24 Miles an Hour on Indianapolis Track To-day

Indianapolis, Ind., May 30.—Joe Boyer of Detroit, driving relief, piloted L. L. Corum's eight-cylinder speedster to a record-breaking victory in the twelfth annual 500-mile automobile race at the Indianapolis motor speedway to-day. Corum, an Indianapolis man, surrendered his machine to Boyer after he had driven it 272 miles.

The time for the 500-miles was more than three-and-a-half miles an hour faster than the previous record for the distance. The previous mark, 94.48, was established by Murphy in 1922.

Girl Seeking to Prove Nephew of Earl Her Father

Edinburgh, May 30 (Canadian Press Cable)—In connection with the legal action taken by Constance Mary Lyon, a nineteen-year-old store clerk in Aberdeen, to establish her claim that she is the eldest lawful child of Hubert Bowes-Lyon, nephew of the Earl of Strathmore, and that she is a cousin of the Duchess of York, a warrant has been granted her to secure the attendance at court of a witness, Miss Mackie, who refused to appear at the hearing of the case last week. It is stated Miss Mackie will be able to give evidence concerning meetings of Hubert Bowes Lyon and Miss Smeaton, mother of Constance Mary Lyon, and can testify as to the plaintiff's birth previous to the marriage of her mother and Hubert Bowes-Lyon and the subsequent legitimation of the plaintiff by the marriage of her mother and father.

Surrounded in a back yard, the man kept the police at bay by shooting at everyone in sight. Christoloff eventually fell, riddled with bullets. The two others escaped.

U.S. Would Send J. G. Schurman as Japan Ambassador

Tokio, May 30—There is reason to believe the Japanese Foreign Office has been asked by the United States Government whether Jacob Gould Schurman, now Minister to China, would be acceptable as Ambassador to Japan, to succeed Cyrus E. Woods, who resigned recently.

Dr. Schurman, who is U. S. Minister at Peking and has been conferring with the admiral in regard to disposition of his forces to protect white interests there during the civil war, is a Canadian by birth. Murderer Ended His Life as Police Cordon Approached Edmonton, May 30. — Isaac Symington, confessed murderer of Albert Sinclair, a half-breed, at Goodfish Lake ten days ago, committed suicide this morning in an attic room of the residence of Frank B. Hendrickson, just as a police cordon was being drawn tightly around him. For ten days the murderer had been hiding in the bush between Goodfish and Boyne Lakes, while a large posse of police and Indians, aided by a bloodhound, had been relentlessly on his trail.

NO NEW JAPANESE MOVE AGAINST U.S.

Government Succeeding Kiyoura Ministry Expected to Be Friendly One

But Jingoists Are Using U.S. Exclusion as Their Chief Text Now

Tokio, May 30—Anti-American feeling engendered by enactment of the United States immigration law with its Japanese exclusion provision threatens to become more widespread and intense, backed as it is by the jingo press and a small group of nationalistic publicists, politicians, former service men and retired officers of the army and navy.

Official Japan, represented by the Kiyoura Government, absolutely opposes any retaliatory measures and although Viscount Kato remains silent upon that point, it is generally believed in high quarters that the new Ministry he is expected to form within a fortnight will continue the same policy.

With this contradiction of public and certain private opinion so in evidence, Japanese officials express regret that they are unable entirely to control the anti-American expressions which are outcropping almost daily in public meetings, published editorials and newspaper advertisements. Propaganda is clearly under way to persuade the public to refuse to purchase United States goods and demand instead Japanese or European substitutes.

Decrease in Trade of Canada and U.S. In April $8,528,554

Washington, May 30.—A falling off in imports from Canada during the month of April this year as compared with the month of April last year is shown in figures published by the Department of Commerce. Canadian imports during April, 1924, were valued at $33,178,353, as compared with imports valued at $36,248,709 during the corresponding month last year.

A large decrease was shown in United States exports to Canada in the same month. Exports to Canada during April this year were valued at $48,318,912, compared with $53,776,960 during April last year.

Thus the total trade decrease in April last as compared with April a year ago, was $8,528,554.

Memorial Day Observed in U.S.

Washington, May 30.—With President Coolidge delivering the principal Memorial Day address in the Arlington Ampitheatre at 1 o'clock, all branches of the Government and its armed forces and patriotic and religious organizations to-day joined in paying formal tribute to the nation's war dead.

The placing of a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier by the President, accompanied by Secretaries Weeks and Wilbur, a ceremony heretofore performed by the executive only on Armistice Day, is expected to set a precedent.

FOR DEFENCE

New York, May 30.—Supreme Court Justice McCook has decided that Eamonn de Valera and Stephen M. O'Mara are entitled to a reasonable part of $2,500,000 of Irish Republican funds now on deposit here for use in prosecuting their defence of the suit brought by the Irish Free State to obtain the money.

SUGGESTS METHOD FOR ADVERTISING LOCAL ACTIVITIES

C. P. Hill Tells Tourist Trade Group Plan For Visitors' Direction

The first step of the new chairman of the tourist trade group of the Chamber of Commerce, C. P. Hill, was to suggest, and explain to-day the publication of a daily programme pamphlet to be published under the supervision of a branch committee of the Chamber of Commerce. The pamphlet would pay for itself by the advertisements which would be contained in it, he said, and would be modeled after the folders published daily in some of the cities of California.

The group was impressed with Mr. Hill's suggestion. A committee, consisting of Daniel Campbell, Thomas Myers and A. Pease, was appointed to deal with the matter, gather information and report as to the feasibility of such a proposition. The object of the folder would be to advertise the various activities and places where a visitor might spend an enjoyable time while in Victoria or surrounding districts. It would be circulated through the various hotels and restaurants, the group understands.

F. Blashfield made a report on the cessation of the radio broadcasting programmes through the Centennial Methodist Church set, saying that this was partly due to the set having been removed and, although the opportunity to broadcast publicity propaganda had remained, he would never have considered it a feasible thing during the Summer months. He stated, however, that he would be in favor of a committee to be named early in the Fall so that they might be able to broadcast programmes through the Winter, for, he said, such advertising as is obtained in this way is almost invaluable.

Frank Waring, past chairman of the group, reported that up to the present time there had been more cars visiting and stopping at the Victoria Motor Camp at Curtis Point this year than for the corresponding period of time in 1923. Everyone expressed satisfaction on leaving the camp at the accommodation and beauty of the place, and Victoria has impressed many tourists passing through it with the many attractive features of the city, by no other medium than this very camp, Mr. Waring says.

GRASSHOPPERS AND CATERPILLARS ARE PEST IN INTERIOR

The grasshopper plague which has been raging around Kelowna has spread to Merritt and Kamloops districts, according to advices received here to-day. While grasshoppers are worrying the farmers of these areas, tent acterpillars are eating the leaves from hundreds of trees in the district around Salmon Arm. Trains have been stalled several times lately in that area by millions of caterpillars crawling upon the rails.

OBITUARY

The funeral of the late James McGregor, who passed away at his home, 51 Menzies Street, last Wednesday morning, will take place Saturday afternoon at 1.15 o'clock from the Sands Funeral Chapel, under the auspices of Vancouver Quadra Lodge No. 2 A.F. and A.M. The late Mr. McGregor was sixty-five years of age, born in Sooke, and a resident of this city for the past four years, former residence Nanaimo. He is survived by, besides his widow at home, two sisters in Nanaimo. He was a member of Doric Lodge No. 18 A.F. and A.M. of Nanaimo.

The funeral of Thelma Victoria, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Robertson, took place on Thursday afternoon from McCall Bros.' Funeral Chapel, corner Johnson and Vancouver Streets. A number of friends attended, and the many floral offerings gave expression to the sympathy extended to Mr. and Mrs. Robertson in the loss of their little girl. Rev. W. G. Wilson, D.D., conducted the service, during which two hymns were sung, "Abide With Me" and "Safe in the Arms of Jesus"; also, "There's a Friend for Little Children" was sung as a solo by Mrs. H. Shingles. The remains were laid to rest at Ross Bay Cemetery, the following friends being the pallbearers: Masters G. Heatley, R. Cooper, J. Cruickshanks and D. Walters.

Service for the late Edward Smith was held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the chapel of the B.C. Funeral Co., by the Rev. Canon Hinchliffe. Many friends were present, and the casket and hearse were covered with beautiful floral tributes. The hymns sung were: "Peace, Perfect Peace," and "Abide With Me." The following acted as pallbearers: Messrs. W. F. Godwin, W. Martin and T. English, representing the Canadian Legion; J. N. Brown, A. Mitchell and G. S. McGregor, representing the G.W.V.A. Among those present were representatives from the various soldier organizations. The remains were laid to rest at Ross Bay Cemetery.

Times Will Carry Ringside Service on Fight To-morrow

No other fight in history in which a championship has not been at stake has aroused so much interest as the Gibbons-Carpentier ten-round contest at Michigan City to-morrow. With both men in the best of shape and with their ring futures virtually hanging on the outcome of the battle it is expected to prove as keen a fight as any championship contest. The advance sale of tickets is heavy. Sports writers from all over the continent are now at Michigan City to cover the fight. Carpentier and Gibbons both fight for a purse of championship proportions.

In view of the interest attaching to the contest The Times to-morrow will carry a special ringside service giving a full and detailed account of the battle. Arrangements have been made for the fight to be flashed round by round from the ringside for publication in Saturday's edition.

SEAMEN'S INSTITUTES DOING GOOD WORK

With the rapidly approaching visit of the fleet to Victoria more than ordinary interest centred around the annual meeting of the Connaught Seamen's Institute and the Sailors' Club, which was held last evening at the Connaught Seamen's Institute, Superior Street.

Arthur Coles, in opening the meeting, regretted exceedingly the absence of the president, Col. A. W. R. Wilby, who is in England, and as the vice-president was also unavoidably absent, Commander Beard was unanimously voted to the chair.

Mr. Coles read the statement of receipts and expenditures for the Sailors' Club, Esquimalt, showing expenditure and receipts balancing at $1,648.63. Reference was made to a donation from the British and Foreign Sailors' Society of $500, a fund to be devoted to repairs and possibly taxes.

Mrs. W. R. Sayer, in reporting for the Ladies' Guild for Sailors, as secretary of the Connaught Guild, showed the receipts to have been $923.29 and the expenditures (made possible by a satisfactory balance in the bank at the beginning of the term), equalling $1,609.83. Mrs. Ranns and Miss Pooley presented excellent reports of the Esquimalt Sailors' Club.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

Hon. president, His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor; hon. vice-president, the Premier; hon. vice-presidents, the Bishop of Columbia, the Bishop of Victoria, the secretary of the Ministerial Association and the Mayor of Victoria; president, Col. Wilby, O.B.E.; vice-president, Reeve Lockley; treasurer, Arthur Coles; secretary, by unanimous re-election, Mr. Wright Hill, regret for whose present illness was generally expressed. Last year's committee also kindly consented to remain in office. Mr. R. H. Pooley was re-elected representative of the British and Foreign Sailors' Society.

Mrs. Donald Lamson Has Distinguished Hawaiian Ancestors

Mrs. Donald Lamson of Honolulu, who arrived here this morning aboard the R.M.S. Niagara from Honolulu, as the bride of Lieut. Donald Lamson, of the United States army, comes from a distinguished ancestry in the Hawaiian Islands. Lieut. Lamson is en route to Fort Monroe where he has been transferred from Hawaii.

Mrs. Lamson is the great granddaughter of Captain George Beckley, an Englishman who went to Hawaii in 1804, became the military adviser of Kamehameha the Great, the king of the Hawaiian Islands, and in 1816 became commander of the first fort located at Honolulu.

In 1808, Capt. Beckley designed the Hawaiian flag. Being an Englishman he placed the Union Jack in the corner and the stripes in the Hawaiian flag represent the eight islands. The flag thus designed remained the standard of the Hawaiian monarchy until 1893. It then became the flag of the Hawaiian Republic until 1898 when Hawaii became a territory of the United States.

Captain Beckley is referred to in Kotzebue's book describing his visit to Hawaii, and tells of Captain Beckley being assigned by Kamehameha as his guide on the Island of Oahu. Captain Beckley's wife was a Hawaiian Chieftainess, Ahia, who was given to Capt. Beckley in marriage by Kamehameha.

Mrs. Lamson is also a relative of Lieut. Hutchison of the flying Mobile Police, who brought down a Zeppelin in London, England, when the city was raided during the war.

WOMAN CRIMINAL TURNED REFORMER

Death in New York Recalls Amazing History of Sophia Lyons

Sophie Lyons, the famous thief-reformer, died yesterday in the Grace Hospital, Detroit, a victim, it is believed, of foul play by three criminals whom she had befriended.

For thirty years the queen of the underworld, Lyons, after she had served sentences in fifty jails, decided that honesty is the best policy and wrote her celebrated book, "Why Crime Doesn't Pay."

Born in New York seventy-six years ago, Sophie, at the age of six, was taught by her mother to pick pockets. Ten years later she traveled extensively in Europe in the company of gangs of noted thieves. One of these thieves, Ned Lyons, she married.

For years the coupre conducted an international safe-blowing and swindling business which is said to have netted them at one time $2,000,000.

After her release, forty years ago, from the House of Correction in Detroit Sophie decided to live honestly. She married Jimmy Burke, another reformed criminal, and moved into a little cottage.

Her married life was happy and prosperous. Both parties to it kept their vow to live honestly, and in 1919, when Burke died, they had amass dea fortune from estate dealings.

TURNED REFORMER

Rich and respected as an honorable business woman, she devoted her life and money to persuading criminals to eschew crime.

She was visited three days ago by three criminals whom she had befriended and tried to reform. Their names she kept secret. Yet they had accused her of "squealing to the police" and threatened to "get her."

The value of her estate is estimated at about $350,000. Her will provided for the establishment of a Sophie Lyons memorial home for children of two to four years of age, one or both of whose parents are in prison. The sum of $125 a year is left to provide delicacies for the sick and persons condemned to death.

LEAGUE CONDEMNS BEER PLEBISCITE

Organization Formed to Combat Sale of Beer by the Glass

At a largely attended meeting in the Metropolitan Church last evening presided over by Dr. W. L. Clay, an organization was formed to oppose the sale of beer by the glass. Strong expressions of disapproval at the recent amendment to the Liquor Act were voiced by several of those present.

H. W. Davey, barrister, gave a very lucid explanation of the act, stating that notwithstanding an adverse vote against the sale of beer the law still remains on the statute book; moreover, the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council might bring the sale of beer by the glass into any polling division where there was a majority in favor of such, despite the fact that the electoral district as a whole had voted against it. If the operation of the act were brought into force it would eventually lead to conditions worse than in the days of the saloon.

Dr. Sipprell was very outspoken, stating that the public have been hoodwinked by the whole act. Dr. W. L. Clay was equally outspoken after listening to Mr. Davey's address.

T. Humphries gave it as his opinion that the Government had allowed itself to be influenced by the liquor interests. No demand, he said, had been made for a plebiscite. Another speaker described the act as an iniquitous piece of legislation.

A committee consisting of T. Humphries, H. W. Davey and Mrs. A. E. Mitchell was appointed to arrange for a plan of campaign. The officers of the league have all been appointed with the exception of a president, as the nominating committee wished to get in touch with some gentlemen who were not present at the meeting.

Mr. Humphries was appointed chairman of the publicity committee, H. N. Mitchell chairman of finance, S. P. Miller chairman of organization committee, James Walker secretary and R. Macdonald treasurer.

Two Nervous Creatures In One House

Newly Discovered Letters of Jane Welsh Carlyle Give Amusing Accounts of Her Tiffs With Thomas and The Earthquakes at 5 Cheyne Row; When Tennyson Calls She Regales Him With Brandy, Tobacco and Lively Talk

By PROFESSOR W. T. ALLISON

The Canadian visitor to old London to-day who pays his shilling admission fee to 5 Cheyne Row, the house which once harbored those stormy spirits, Thomas and Jane Carlyle, is interested most of all in the sound-proof chamber which the irritable prophet caused to be built at the top of his house to protect him from the noises of street vendors, hurdygurdies, and the piano drummed by the ladies next door. He is also amused at the sight of the tin bath in which Thomas once awkwardly performed his ablutions, but he comes away feeling that the Carlyles lived in a depressing, ugly abode. But those bare floors once echoed to the tread of distinguished men and women and those time-stained walls once saw not only the toiling hero-worshipper, but scenes of great human interest. And fortunately for us those dead yesterdays in 5 Cheyne Row live once more in the numerous letters penned by the keenly observant and witty Mrs. Carlyle. I have just been reading with unflagging zeal "Jane Welsh Carlyle: Letters to Her Family, 1839-1863," edited by Leonard Huxley, LL.D. (McClelland and Stewart, Toronto), a goodly sized volume, with portraits, in which some 220 missives, sent to Scotch relatives and kept by their descendants all these years, have been laid under contribution. Mrs. Carlyle's letters to the number of 333 were published in the Froude volumes forty-one years ago and Mr. Alexander Carlyle at a later date found and published 268 more in his "New Letters and Memorials of Jane Welsh Carlyle," so that with this newly discovered batch, the grand total amounts to 821, a massive epistolary output for a woman who was so delicate, so much the victim of sleepless nights and nervous debility as the wife of the sage of Chelsea. And she has made a secure place for herself by this correspondence among the truly great letter writes of modern times. She has often been pitied because she married an irascible man of genius, but these letters prove that she was a genius herself in registering in vigorous English impressions of the fleeting hour and in drawing portraits of her contemporaries. The contents of this large volume support the judgment of her husband when he wrote in the sad days after Jane's death, "As to talent, epistolary and other, these letters, I perceive, equal and surpass whatever of best I know to exist, in that kind."

A VERY NERVOUS PAIR

One of the chief impressions that we get from this collection of intimate letters to relatives is that Thomas and Jane were as happy together as two people could be who were so plagued by ill-health. It took very little social or any other kind of excitement to send Mrs. Carlyle to bed with shattered nerves which prevented her from sleeping night after night; one dinner party was sufficient to make either or both of them bilious, and there is constant talk in these letters of how Carlyle dosed himself with blue pills (mercury) and followed them with draughts of castor oil. In later life, as insomnia obtained an ever stronger hold upon her, Mrs. Carlyle resorted to morphine and Dr. Huxley asserts that the effect of this drug was seen in here jealousy of Lady Ashburton. For many years the Carlyles were frequent visitors to Bath House in town and to Lady Harriet Ashburton's various country places where they met celebrities, both social and literary, and where Carlyle was particularly interested in talking with leading men in politics and affairs to whom he unfolded his strenuous ideas of reform, for his chief desire, as Dr. Huxley points out, was to make history rather than to write it. During the early years of their friendship there is nothing to indicate that Jane Carlyle was jealous of Lady Ashburton's attentions to her Thomas, and even during the later period of black nervous depression, when morphia made her the prey of foolish suspicions, there were lucid intervals when she assured her husband that she reposed in him complete trust, as when she exclaimed in her birthday letter of 1846: "At least to quiet myself I will try to believe. Oh!- why cannot I believe once and for all? That with all my faults and follies I am still dearer to you than any other earthly creature." I do not see how anyone could read the letters in this book and not come to the conclusion that in spite of what Jane calls the "eatrhquakes" at 5 Cheyne Row, Carlyle and his wife were much in love with each other and enjoyed life together. Their tiffs and tongue combats were nothing but the tossing of the surface waves of emotion; beneath these lay the deep sea of an eternal devotion.

CARLYLE BUYS A CLOAK FOR JANE

One of the best proofs of Carlyle's love for Jane is the fact that after her mother's death he gave his wife birthday and New Year presents to make up for those which her mother had always sent to her on those anniversaries. He did this out of tender sympathy for her because he felt that she would otherwise find those days too sad. And Jane appreciated this thoughtfulness all the more because, as she explains in a letter written on January 1, 1847, she knew he had a "sacred horror of shopping." So great was his dislike that he could never be induced to order even his own coats and trousers at the tailor's until one year when he sent Jane to get him a coat she cured him by buying one sky blue with yellow buttons. But while she insisted that he should order his own clothes, she felt so sorry for the agony he must have endured in searching for presents for her that she made him promise in December, 1847, not to give her anything on New Year's Day. "He laughed very much," she writes, "and repeated that he would not. But to reconcile his promise with his wish to show his kindness—what does he do but sally forth and buy me a present for Christmas, and in a fit of audacity almost incredible the thing he chose to buy was—a cloak!—a woman's cloak!—and when he came in on Christmas morning to ask how I was he cunningly slipped it down on the chair at the bottom of my bed, where I first noticed it when I was putting on my clothes at midday. It happened that just at that moment I was thinking of the warm dressing gown which used to be sent him every Christmas by her—and all the flannel petticoats and night-caps and thoughtful things of her own making for myself; my heart was full of sorrow—and just then I saw on the chair what seemed a new dressing gown—like the former ones—there was something perfectly bewildering in the vision. I stood staring at the thing uncertain if I was going mad and merely fancying to see it, at last in a sort of desperation I laid hold of it and found it was a woman's cloak—and then I understood the whole matter—but I was made horribly sad and nervous by it for the whole day. Poor Carlyle; his gift deserved to have excited gladder feelings—however I did my best to look glad over it before him—and he was much consoled by my assurance that it could be worn. He had bought it 'by gas light' he said and 'felt quite desperate about it when he saw it in the morning.' But it is a wonderful cloak for him to have bought—warm, and not very ugly—and a good shape—only entirely unsuitable to the rest of my habiliments! being a brownish color with orange spots and a brown velvet collar! !"

SHOWER BATH EVERY MORNING

A long gossipy letter was written in September, 1846, to Helen Welsh. In this Jane says that Thomas should have married a jolly fat woman, not a nervous creature like himself. "Carlyle," she writes, "should have had 'a strong-minded woman, for wife, with a perfectly sound liver, plenty of solid fat, and mirth and good-humor world without end—mend do best with their opposites. I am too like himself in some things—especially as to the state of our livers, and so we aggravate one another's tendencies to despair! But there is no altering of all that now—nothing to be done but make the best of it—which I candidly confess I am far from doing. I do try, however, to the best of my humble ability—and having found small profit hitherto in mending and tinkering at my soul, I am for the moment modestly directing my faculties to the repairing of my body—trusting that the soul may be ultimately reached through that outwork. Every morning I take the shower bath—quite cold—and three pailfuls of it! The shock is indescribable! and whether it strengthens or shatters me I have not yet made up my mind! but at all events when I have taken it, I feel to have accomplished a very decided act of volition—and that makes my moral blood circulate a little; however it may be with the physical! then I eat all that ever I can and drink bottled porter—not so good as yours by any means—but tolerable—and I walk as if the Devil were in me—and so, I fancy he is—six and seven miles in the day on an average! I also try to be neither solitary nor idle—which old Burton recommends as the grand cure of 'melancholy.'"

GO TO EXHIBITION AS DEADHEADS

There was a great exhibition in London in 1851, probably the greatest of all predecessors of the present Empire Show at Wembley. Jane and Thomas went because they were offered a pass by John Forster, then editor of The Examiner. 'We went,' she writes, "and oh how tired I was! Not that it is not really a very beautiful sight—especially at the entrance; the three large trees, built in, because the people objected to their being cut down, a crystal fountain, and a large blue canopy give one a momentary impression of a bazaar in the Arabian Nights entertainments—and such a lot of things of different kinds and of well dressed people—for the tickets were still five shillings—was rather imposing for a few minutes—but when you come to look at the wares in detail—there was nothing really worth looking at—at least that one could not have seen samples of in the shops. The big diamond indeed—worth a million! that one could not have seen at any jeweller's—but oh Babbie what a disappointment! for the big diamond—unset—looked precisely like a bit of crystal the size and shape of the first joint of your thumb! And the fatigue of even the most cursory survey was indescribable and to tell you the God's truth I would not have given the pleasure of reading a good fairy tale for all the pleasure to be got from that 'Fairy Scene!' I have surely a great many things to tell you not about the exhibition—but I have only a horrid steel pen and my paper appears to be scarce."

EDITOR WHO CUDDLED THE LADIES

Lord Jeffrey, editor of The Edinburgh Review, was a great friend of the Carlyles. When he visited 5 Cheyne Row in 1844 he was a gallant old gentleman of seventy and as he was specially fond of Mrs. Carlyle, he always insisted on kissing her. Describing his amorous conduct in a letter to her niece, Jane write, "He having a strong natural tendency for cuddling people (without the slightest earthly harm in it) and taking advantage of his now being near seventy years of age to indulge this innocent taste to the fullest extent, took me all in his arms as usual—regardless of the presence of Plattnauer, Empson and Helen (as indeed he would have done the same before twenty starched dowagers) and gave me one kiss after another, not 'on the brow' or any of those delicate spots, but plump on my lips! —calling me 'my darling Jeanie!— my sweet child! my dear love!!! and then when we had got over the brunt of the business and sat down on the sofa he ceased not for a moment from kissing my hands, stroking my hair, patting my face—and saying the tenderest things in the tenderest tones!

TOBACCO, BRANDY AND TEA FOR TENNYSON

Carlyle and Tennyson were intimate friends. Jane tells us in one of her letters that Carlyle liked Tennyson best of all—what Thackeray said of Fitzgerald. One evening when Carlyle had gone to dine somewhere, Tennyson, who came up to London only rarely, called at 5 Cheyne Row. He was accompanied by his friend Moxon, the publisher. In the following lively style Mrs. Carlyle tells how she did the honors in her husband's absence: "Alfred is dreadfully embarrassed with women alone—for he entertains at one and the same moment a felling of almost adoration for them and an ineffable contempt! adoration I suppose for what they might be—contempt for what they are! The only chance of my getting any right good of him was to make him forget my womanness—so I did just as Carlyle would have done had he been there; got out pipes and tobacco—and brandy and water—with a deluge of tea over and above. The effect of these accessories was miraculous—he professed to be ashamed of polluting my room, 'felt,' he said, 'as if he were stealing cups and sacred vessels in the Temple'—but he smoked on all the same—for three mortal hours!—talking like an angel—only exactly as if he were talking with a clever man—which—being a thing I am not used to—men always adapting their conversation to what they take to be a woman's taste—strained me to a terrible pitch of intellectuality.

"When Carlyle came home at 12 o'clock and found me all alone in an atmosphere of tobacco so thick that you might have cut it with a knife his astonishment was considerable."

Two of the most frequent callers at the Carlyle home were Mazzini and Erasmus Darwin. We have endless references to them in these letters, also personalia concerning Dickens, Thackeray, Fitzgerald, Lewes, Forster, the Martineaus, Miss Jewsbury, a novelist who was very thick with Jane, the Bullers and the Sterlings. Some of the most amusing pages in this sparkling book are those which describe Carlyle's fussing and fuming over the writing of his Life of Oliver Cromwell.

WOOZER ACCUSES WOBBLE!

Sincerity of Alderman's Appetite Is Impugned; Grave Charges Stagger His Supporters But He Denies Everything

By Montagu Mump, Secretary of the Hundred Per Cent Party

I knew instinctively that there was something wrong the moment Mr. Percival Woozer broke in upon a meeting of the Hundred Per Cent Party's executive committee to-day. The sinister smile that squirmed under Mr. Woozer's wriggily mustache, I felt, boded no good, for Mr. Woozer's smiles have decreased as his family has developed an opposite tendency. He has seldom smiled at all since the even dozen mark was passed and it is generally understood that on the arrival of the thirteenth, which were twins, he remarked that he had always thought thirteen was his unlucky number and now he was sure of it.

"Aha!" hissed Mr. Woozer as he interupted the meeting of our executive committee to-day. "That is the nigger in the wood pile!" he cried, brandishing a sheaf of papers and leveling a bony finger at Alderman David Wobble, the candidate of our party here. Alderman Wobble smiled the joyless smile of a small boy caught strangling his baby brother and murmured, "I deny it."

"Aha! he's the fly in our ointment!" cried Mr. Percival Woozer, still pointing squarely at Alderman Wobble's front, not a difficult target.

"I deny it," said Alderman Wobble, looking himself up and down hastily to see what was wrong with him. Unable to find anything more than usual he buttoned up his coat hurriedly as protection against Mr. Woozer's bitter wrath.

"Deny it, eh?" shrieked Mr. Woozer with a laugh as pleasant as a mosquito bite. "That's a good one, that is!"

"It's untrue," murmured Alderman Wobble. "What is it, anyway? Whatever it is, I deny it."

"What is it?" screeched Mr. Woozer. "Campaign funds, sir, of course—food, sir, food! Ham and aigs—ham and aigs!"

Mr. Woozer continued to point at Alderman Wobble's most prominent plane surface and Alderman Wobble glanced over himself to see whether the last remark were of a personal nature. After a rapid inspection he buttoned up his coat again with a guilty shudder and whispered hoarsely, "I deny it." But somehow his words did not carry conviction.

HARD WORDS

"Listen," croaked Mr. Woozer. "Listen!"

"I deny it," whispered Alderman Wobble mechanically.

"Listen," Mr. Woozer went on. "This creature, this priceless Wobble, whom you nominated instead of an honest man like myself, this human jelly is in the pay of interests which control the food supply of our country! Aha! Through this puffed-up monstrosity they plan to fasten themselves upon this country like seaweed on a clam!"

"Food!" gasped Alderman Wobble.

"Food!" gasped the executive committee of the Hundred Per Cent Party.

"Yes, food!" screamed Mr. Percival Woozer. Whereupon he threw down on the table stenographic reports of all Alderman Wobble's campaign speeches. These showed, he said, that in all his address our candidate had praised with eloquence, misguided eloquence, but still with eloquence, the virtues of food. Even when his enemies were heaving food of doubtful ancestry and more doubtful age at him, said Mr. Woozer, Alderman Wobble had continued to laud the value of ham and eggs in the building up of a nation, asserting with mock passion that they were more important than the P.G.E. Was that the utterance of an honest man? asked Mr. Woozer.

SERIOUS CHARGES

At our recent banquet Alderman Wobble had referred with hypocritical emotion to the "radiant glory of beefsteak, well smothered in onions." Was that the remark of a patriot? Mr. Woozer demanded. For his part he was convinced that this statement had been written for Alderman Wobble by the men who had bought him, for certainly Alderman Wobble himself could not have thought of anything so clever.

"All through his speeches has thundered that sinister undertone—ham and aigs, ham and aigs!" shouted Mr. Woozer.

"Ham and aigs!" gasped Alderman Wobble.

"Ham and aigs!" gasped the executive committee of the Hundred Per Cent Party.

"Yes, ham and aigs!" bellowed Mr. Woozer. "Why his speeches would make an honest man bilious."

"I deny it," Alderman Wobble muttered, but somehow the sea-green expression which had come over him seemed to be complete proof of Mr. Woozer's last statement.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

"What does all this mean?" whispered Mr. Woozer, placing his finger mysteriously on his nose.

"What does all this mean?" whispered the executive committee of the Hundred Per Cent Party, placing their fingers mysteriously on their noses.

"Wh-wh-what does all this mean?" moaned Alderman Wobble, seeking to place his fingers mysteriously on his nose, but not succeeding very well. Then he added quickly, "I deny it."

"Why, it means that if this man is elected life will just be one ham and aig after another!" Mr. Woozer asserted. "He wants us to grasp, to embrace these things as he has done and he flaunts his creed openly, flagrantly, on his vest front!"

"I deny it," gurgled Alderman Wobble, but he buttoned up his coat again rapidly to conceal the evidence to which Mr. Woozer referred.

WOBBLE DEFIANT

There was a tense silence for some minutes. Then Alderman Wobble rose shakily but with dignity. He remarked that he did not suppose for a minute that anyone was saying anything against him. If he thought that any such suggestion had been made, even indirectly or by inference, he would resign after killing the person who made the suggestion; but as Mr. Woozer had evidently not intended anything of the sort he was content, being of a generous nature, not to press the matter further. "I deny everything," he added and strode out of the room.

"If those charges are true," said Cicero Blopp, the brilliant organizer of our party, "I have been nourishing a foul viper in my bosom."

And Mr. Blopp placed his right hand majestically on that part of his anatomy which, indeed, is ample enough to accommodate a large family of those interesting creatures.

B.H.

Mr. Percival Woozer Smiled a Sickly Smile.

RADIO CLUB GROWS RAPIDLY IN SIZE

Interesting Meeting Set For Next Friday; Speakers Booked

An exceptionally interesting programme has been arranged for the next monthly meeting of the Victoria Radio Club, to be held at the Y.M.C.A., Friday, June 6, at 8 o'clock.

"Our next meeting, which will be attended by close on to one hundred and fifty new members who have joined our ranks during the past few weeks, will be of interest from the opening to the close," announced Harold Grant, president of the Victoria Radio Club, this morning. "The committee in charge has been working hard and have been successful in arranging a programme that will interest all."

Arthur Porter, chairman of the committee who has charge of next week's programme, has arranged with W. J. Frampton, one of Victoria's well known radio experts, to give a short address on "Radio of Yesterday and To-day." The address should be exceedingly interesting as Mr. Frampton has been connected with the wireless telegraph and radio business since its inception many years ago. He will discuss briefly the many great changes that have taken place in the past twenty years, and more especially the past five years. Mr. Frampton has a very thorough knowledge of radio and will give fans some facts that will be both instructive and interesting.

Jack MacKay, probably the first radio fan in Victoria to build a five-tube neutrodyne receiving set, will demonstrate his set at the meeting. Mr. MacKay is well acquainted with various types of radio receiving sets and his talk and demonstration will acquaint local fans of the merits of the much discussed set. Mr. MacKay was the operator in charge of the Centennial Methodist Church Broadcasting station when it first opened.

It was first arranged that J. Dunlop should demonstrate his powerful Super-Heterodyne, but owing to him leaving the city for a short holiday, he will be unable to attend the meeting. The committee is arranging to have Mr. Dunlop demonstrate his new set at the July meeting.

So far the campaign for new members has been very successful and officials are more than pleased with the results. Application for membership forms can be obtained at E. G. Prior & Company Limited, C. W. Radio, Western Canada Radio Supply Limited, Minty & White, Sun Electric Company, International Engineering School and the membership committee.

NOISES IN SET ARE EXPLAINED

Advice For Amateur Radio Receivers of Value

Scratching noises in a radio receiver seem to be the noises that are prevalent in most sets that are noisy. These noises may be due to one or more of several causes. Those fans having sets that are scratchy will do well to read over the following list and then look over their sets for the points mentioned.

The first place to look for trouble is the aerial and ground. If there is any corrosion in any of the joints they should be taken apart and cleaned. Then resoldered. Any joint that is not soldered is liable to cause scratchy noises in the phones.

The next place to look for trouble in this line is on the tube prongs. If there is any corrosion here it should be filed off and the prong preferably given a coating of solder. Use rosin as a flux in this case.

The binding posts on the sockets, rheostats and other parts of the set, if loose, will cause scratchy noises. All nuts should be tightened with a pair of plyers to eliminate any chance of overlooking one nut.

Loose soldered connections in any of the leads in the set will cause scratchy noises and also clicks that are easily traced by touching the wires when the phones are in the circuit and the tubes lit.

Any friction bearings on variable condensers, variometers or vario couplers will cause any amount of scratchy noises. It would be better to put pigtail connections on all the equipment that now have this type of bearing and forego the necessity of cleaning the shafts and rods every time the set becomes noisy.

Scratchy noises are often due to loose phone connections. This is easily traced by shaking the phone cord while the phones are connected to the set with the tubes turned on.

EMPLOYER FIRED HIM, AND COOPER GAINED SUCCESS

Speed Driver Tells Story of How He Started on Road to Fame

Indianapolis, May 31—When Earl Cooper pulled into the pits after tuning up his Studebaker special for the international 500-mile race at the Speedway here, he was questioned by his old friend, Mayor Lew Shank, of this city, who is a racing fan.

"Listen, Earl," said he, "I got into politics by getting the ear of my neighbors as a successful auctioneer. Now tell me, how did you come to get into this perilous game of playing bo-peep to a car that's leaping around a track at 110 miles an hour?"

Cooper, sun-painted veteran of the tracks, grinned. He borrowed a cigarette from the mayor and said:

"Mayor, I've made a lot of money out of my fourteen years' racing—and I owe it all to my old employer in the garage in San Jose, California. He fired me under peculiar circumstances—and that started me on my racing career."

"Y'see, I was just a young fellow, working in the garage and salesroom of C. H. Letcher. Well, one day I boasted that I was some pumpkins as a racer. So my boss and I agreed on a twenty-three mile race. You know what funny old gas gondolas they had in those days."

"Well I beat him—and he fired me. I was out of a job. So I thought I'd borrow a car and become a racer. I won the great Portola race at Oakland, and I've been living on the tracks ever since."

POTENTIOMETER USEFUL DEVICE

Generally Employed in Radio Frequency Amplifiers

A potentiometer is a very useful device in any radio receiving set. The place where it is most often employed is in radio frequency amplifiers, where it is used to prevent oscillations by controlling the grid voltage of the radio frequency amplifier tubes. When used for this purpose the two outside terminals of the potentiometer are connected to the two "A"battery terminals and the slider is connetd to the grid return of the radio frequency amplifier tubes.

Another use for a potentiometer is to vary the plate voltage for soft detector tubes. This may be accomplished by connecting negative "B" battery wire to the slider on the potentiometer and then connecting the resistance coil of the potentiometer across the "A" battery. With the potentiometer connected in this manner it is possible to vary the "B" battery potential six volts—i.e., when a six volt "A" battery is used to heat the filaments.

A third use for a potentiometer in a receiving set is to increase the resistance of the aerial and in that way reduce the radiation form regenerative receivers. When the potentiometer is used for this purpose it is connected as a rheostat rather than a potentiometer, for the slider of the potentiometer is connected to the aerial, and one side of the resistance is connected to the aerial binding post on the receiver.

The resistance of the average potentiometer is between 100 and 500 ohms and for receiving sets a potentiometer of about 400 ohms resistance is usually required.

Chaplin Succeeds as Film Director in "A Woman of Paris"

Charles Spencer Chaplin has spoiled the chances of immortality for every other film actor who will follow in his footsteps. He has taken the laurel wreath off the brow of the unborn Thespians of the Silver Square. He has stolen the thunder from the storms of applause that are not yet over the horizon.

Lots of people can tell you what the movies will be like in a hundred years. Charles Chaplin can show you. He not only knows his business, he knows the business of the eminent screen actor who is at this moment deep in his cradle.

In Chaplin we have the actor who reached perfection without ever traveling along the road of imperfection. He has reduced action and inaction to a fine art; he has made the sub-title look a crowning foolery; he is the greatest messenger of all.

Very seldom do we meet with a sub-title in a Chaplin film. When they are there they are nearly always there for a purely technical reason; they are never necessary to the story. And they are always brief and snappy. Moreover, Chaplin does not talk once in a million feet. Watch his lips move? You can't. At least the prop of speech is far from the Chaplin picture. The Chaplin picture has never been propped.

And now that he is a director and as his first dramatic picture has given the world "A Woman of Paris," a United Artists release, showing at the Dominion this week, it looks as though he will repeat in this field.

Not only has he shown the way. His quaint little figure has blocked it.

Lovers of Three Distinct Periods in "Enchanted Cottage"

Love, they say, is always the same, but John S. Robertson, director of "The Enchanted Cottage," starring Richard Barthelmess, at the Royal Theatre this week, is convinced that love, like everything else, changes. Lovers of three different periods appear in "The Enchanted Cottage"—first, a nobleman and fair lady of the Court of James II; then a bashful swain and demure maid of 1830; and finally, a war veteran and an English governess of 1923, played by Mr. Barthelmess and May McAvoy.

"The woman was the aggressor in the 17th century, the period of Nell Gwynne, the first of all vampires," says Mr. Robertson. "The man played his cards first in the 19th century; and to-day, man and woman meet each other on equal terms and love naturally."

All of which proves that Mr. Robertson knows his psychology of love, as well as how to direct motion pictures.

Amusing Farce at Playhouse Theatre

No one should miss seeing Ernie Petch in the laughable farce "The India Rubber Girl" now playing at the Playhouse Theatre. This play is one of the funniest yet staged by the company. Mrs. Tayler, Peggy Lewis and Will Marshall are other funny characters which greatly add to the riot.

Shave Was Luxury for Film Actor at Close of Screening

It seldom happens that a shave is cause for a celebration, but "The Uninvited Guest," produced by J. E. Williamson and released through Metro, was responsible for such an event. "Lefty" Flynn, the hero of the picture, was obliged to let his beard grow for six weeks to show that he had become a regular South Sea Islander. "Lefty" was barely recognizable under the growth, so that when he returned to civilization via the "safety" route, the members of the cast staged a real party.

"The Uninvited Guest" is showing this week at the Capitol Theatre.

Royal Management Reports Rush for "Lightnin'" Tickets

As expected, the rush attending the opening of the seat sale for "Lightnin'" at 9 o'clock this morning surpassed anything that the Royal Victoria Theatre management has experienced since the occasional visits of Maud Adams and David Warfield and the first engagements of "Ben Hur." Interest in the coming of the famous play has been at white heat for weeks and the opening of the box office sale has been impatiently awaited.

"Lightnin'" is to be presented by John Golden for three performances on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, June 2, 3 and 4, and there appears to be no doubt that it will duplicate its record in other cities.

Too Much Money May Not be Blessing is Moral at Playhouse

Wealth—that is, too much of it—has been credited with the reputation of being one of the most harmful influences upon our modern youth. This fact has proved to be the subject for many discussions, lectures, and has been used for the foundation for many stories and novels.

"Youthful Cheaters," the feature attraction starring Glenn Hunter, at the Playhouse this week, opens up the pages of life among the exclusive "400." The story itself was written by Townsend Martin, one of New York's inner set, with the result that excellent and authentic material has been injected into this story regarding the lives of the youth of modern wealth.

It has often been said that the devil finds work for idle hands to do and this motto has been utilized to good advantage in forming the substance for this entertaining story of the effect of modern life and jazz on a manly and upright youth.

YOUR HEALTH

WHAT TO DO TO AVOID INGROWN TOE-NAIL DANGERS

By Royal S. Copeland, M.D.

We have made great progress in modern science. One of the great advances of our day is the application of the X-ray machine to the fitting of shoes.

It is a common occurrence to see a person limping along the street suffering torture from his feet. In most instances this misery might be avoided.

Ingrown toe-nail is a term which of itself makes us suffer mentally. This name would lead one to believe that the nail grows into the flesh of the toe. As a matter of fact, it is the soft flesh at the side of the toe that pushes up against the nail. This constant and abnormal pressure soon breaks the flesh and paves the way for infection.

In some instances the infection appears early. In others it may not appear until the toe has been mistreated for a long time. As a rule, ingrown toe-nail appears on the inner side of the great toe.

When we learn to dress our feet in shoes that conform to the shape of the foot, rather than trying to make our feet fit the shoes, then there will be fewer foot troubles than at present.

Shoes with pointed toes and extremely high heels should never be worn by persons who have "square toes." They force the toes together in an unatural position and produce pressure on the vulnerable great toe.

That is what happens if you select your shoes with an eye to looks alone. You should consider comfort as well as appearance. You may be surprised to find that you can buy shoes that are comfortable as well as good-looking.

Some of the up-to-the-minute shoe stores make use of X-ray machines. These show the position of the foot in the shoe. In this way it is possible to make sure that the shoe fits properly. In fitting children's shoes this is especially desirable.

There are a number of things that help in overcoming the acute conditions resulting from ingrowing toenail. For instance, cutting a diamond-shaped piece from the centre of the nail may afford relief from the pressure.

A small piece of absorbent cotton, tightly rolled and pushed under the edge of the nail is another means of relief. In using the cotton it is always best to place a narrow strip of adhesive tape around the toe to keep the cotton in place.

If these measures fail it may be necessary for you to have removed a part of the nail and the accumulation of the proud flesh. This is a simple operation and need cause no alarm.

There are many fine foot clinics in the larger cities.—Here people who cannot afford the services of a specialist may receive expert advice and treatment.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain How to Treat

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach, and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

CLAIM FREIGHT RATES ARE NOT VITAL POLITICS

Speaking on behalf of R. G. Coventry last night at the Marigold Hall, Harold B. Robertson, K.C., claimed that the freight rates fight was not a political issue.

No matter what party was in power, he stated, rates were determined by a Board of Railway Commissioners.

Mr. Robertson asserted that there was mismanagement in the P.G.E. project, and that the Government had not handled the matter properly. He declared that the contractors had not lived up to their contract, and that although the Government had been advised by experts to give up the road, they had made no statement as to their policy in this regard.

T. G. Coventry also addressed the meeting, laying claim to the correctness of his and Herbert Carmichael's figures as to the Province's indebtedness.

The Government has only left the municipalities the right to tax the land, said Mr. Coventry, and takes $2,000,000 rightly belonging to these municipalities through the motor vehicles fees, amusement and gasoline taxes.

LOOK FOR INTEREST PAYMENT IN 1925

G.T.P. Debenture Holders in Britain Expect Full Amount Next Year

London, May 30 (Canadian Press cable)—"If the holders of Grand Trunk Pacific four-per cent debentures are disappointed by the statement made in the Canadian House of Commons by Hon. G. P. Graham, Minister of Railways, that only $322,803 will be available for partial payment of last year's interest on the Grand Trunk Pacific debentures, they have the satisfaction of knowing their rights at least have been recognized by the Canadian Government," says the financial editor of The London Daily Telegraph.

Criticism elsewhere runs along rather similar lines and references are being made to the fact that this outcome of the problem disposes of the confident statement issued by the G.T.P. stockholders' committee six months ago, that the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway profits would be ample to cover the whole of the Grand Trunk Pacific debenture interest. At the same time the prospects for full payment of the interest next year are regarded as good.

The announcement of the Canadian Minister of Railways as to the payment of interest certainly will put a stop to the gambling in the Grand Trunk Pacific debentures which has been prevalent here for some months. In October last the stock was quoted at 28, but gambling on it began and the price soared until it virtually reached the high mark of 55.

CHARGE OF MURDER IN LINDSAY, ONT.

Coroner's Jury Says F. McGaughey Shot Nineteen-Year-Old Girl

Lindsay, Ont., May 30.—Finding that Fred McGaughey on Sunday, May 25, shot, killed and murdered Lillian Beatrice Fee, the coroner's jury last night completed its inquiry into the shooting of pretty nineteen-year-old girl.

Little evidence, other than that already given, was forthcoming at the inquest. While Provincial Constable Storey, who investigated the shooting and arrested McGaughey, told of McGaughey attempting to take Paris green and shouting that "he was crazy and wondering why others did not know it," other witnesses, including his two brothers, maintained the prisoner had never shown any signs of insanity.

ALBERTA COAL FOR USERS IN ONTARIO

C.N.R. to be Asked to Test Transportation Cost by Trainload

Montreal, May 30.—No overtures have yet been made to him by the Ontario Government in connection with a proposal for testing the cost of hauling coal from Alberta to Ontario, Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, stated here to-day when asked to comment on the newspaper report of a scheme said to have been formulated at a conference held in Toronto on Monday last.

It is announced that Ontario and Alberta are jointly about to submit to Sir Henry a new scheme in order to get reasonable freight rate on Canadian coal. The proposal is that two solid train loads of Alberta coal be sent East and made the basis of a test for transportation costs.

BEER WAS SEIZED IN MOOSE JAW

Moose Jaw, May 30.—Paying a sudden call to this city yesterday, members of the Saskatchewan Liquor Commission in a raid staged in a building annexed to the Saskatchewan Glass and Supply Company removed twenty-two barrels and three kegs of what is alleged to be beer of a strength greater than legal. No one has laid claim to the seized liquid.

SAYS UKRAINIANS ARE BIG PROBLEM

Presbyterian Mission Worker Speaks of Settlements on Prairies

Montreal, May 30.—Inimical to all ideals of Canadian unity and promising to become a serious menace in the future are the strong nationalistic tendencies which are being kept alive and deliberately fostered among the hundreds of thousands of Ukranians now settled in Western Canada, declared Dr. A. J. Hunter, over twenty years a medical missionary to new Canadians, who addressed the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church in Canada here yesterday. In his opinion it is the chief problem with which Canada is faced.

He asserted that Ukranians had an obsession that the Anglo-Saxons wished to swallow them up.

There are at least 300,000 Ukranians in Canada, and they are coming in rapidly still, said the speaker.

The only way of reaching the Ukranians without exciting distrust and hostility, said Dr. Hunter, was by way of the hospitals. Of that work at Toulon, Man., where he is superintendent of the hospital, founded by the Women's Missionary Society, Dr. Hunter said it had cared for over 3,000 patients, while the number of cases treated ran into the tens of thousands.

Gene Tunney Next For the Winner Of Saturday's Battle

Rickard May Negotiate With Winner For Bout With U.S. Light Heavyweight

Both Gibbons and Carpentier Will Enter the Ring Heavier Than in Last Battles

Michigan City, Ind., May 30.—While a chilling wind swept off Lake Michigan a few yards away, reducing the temperature to a point where overcoats were a necessity, Georges Carpentier, former world's light heavyweight champion, to-day engaged in his last workout for his ten-round international contest with Tom Gibbons of St. Paul here Saturday afternoon.

The French light heavyweight did no boxing, but engaged in a workout equivalent to six rounds, including shadow boxing and other gymnasium routine. The weather was so cold when Carpentier appeared in the outdoors ring, which nestles in a ravine just off the shore of the lake, that he wore a white sweater over his ring clothes to protect himself from a chilling. He did not discard it until he had stepped a fast round of shadow boxing and a round with the light punching bag. The handful of newspaper correspondents watching the workout shivered in heavy overcoats.

Refusing to brave the biting wind, Gibbons called off the outdoor programme and took only light exercises, working out indoors in the dance hall in the resort where he is quartered, seven miles up the lake shore. Gibbons merely shadow boxed and took a session at skipping the rope to keep his muscles loosened. In the morning he played eighteen holes of golf, defeating the champion woman player of the club with a score of 90, regarded as excellent for the condition of the course and the weather.

IN THE PINK

Gibbons's sparring partners, apparently glad that their services were no longer needed, declared that Gibbons was in the finest possible condition.

This view was also shared by Manager Eddie Kane, who declared the St. Paul man was ready.

Gibbons himself ventured the opinion that his condition was perfect and that he would do nothing more to-morrow aside from a round of golf in the morning.

The work of Carpentier, one of the most graceful and easiest moving boxers in the world, was impressive, although the critics did not have the opportunity to watch him box. In his shadow boxing, Carpentier worked in and out with amazing speed and agility, always slashing out with his famous right hand at an imaginary foe. He appeared eager for work, and wound up with a three-minute session of rope skipping. He appeared to be on edge, in the opinion of the experts, and both he and Descamps expressed the greatest confidence in the result of Saturday's contest, neither admitting there is a chance to lose.

BOTH HEAVIER

Emerson W. Dickerson of Grand Rapids, who will referee the contest, met both Carpentier and Gibbons to-day and explained the rules to them. Dickerson said both boxers would be ordered to tape their hands after they entered the ring, instead of in the dressing rooms, and only soft cotton bandages would be allowed. Gibbons said that he expected to scale around 177 pounds, which would make him two pounds heavier than when he succeeded in staying fifteen rounds with Jack Dempsey in Shelby, Mont., last July 4. Carpentier expects to scale about 174 or 175 pounds. He weighed 168 when he faced Dempsey in their famous battle of the century in Boyle's Thirty Acres in 1921.

Manager Kane received a telegram to-day from Tex Rickard that the New York promoter was coming with Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City to see the match.

Rickard may negotiate with the winner of Saturday's match for an engagement in the East with Gene Tunney, the American light heavyweight champion. Carpentier has announced he expects to fulfill his engagement with Billy Gibson, presumably against Tunney, the latter part of June, but this match may depend on the outcome of Saturday's contest here.

Veteran Drivers in 500-Mile Classic at Indianapolis To-day

Indianapolis, Ind., May 30.—Henry Ford tried out the Indianapolis motor speedway course himself to-day for one lap—on foot. He covered the two-and-one-half mile oval in thirty minutes, hugging the rail on all the turns.

Mr. Ford walked around the track on which the twelfth annual 500-mile automobile race will be held to-morrow to inspect it in an official capacity. He will referee the contest, and on him will rest the responsibility of making all decisions during its progress.

The race drivers include many veterans, but Milton and Murphy are the only ones who have ever placed first in the 500-mile classic. The participation of Alfred M. Moss of England and Antoine Mourre of France gives the race an international aspect. Both, however, are driving American cars. The only foreign car entered is driven by Ora Haibe, and it is a Mercedes rebuilt in this country.

Other drivers include such veterans as Eddie Hearne, Bennett Hill, Harry Hartz, Ira Vail, Jerry Wonderlich, Earl Cooper, Joe Boyer, Peter Depaolo, Fred Corum, L. L. Corum, Cliff Durant, Jules Ellingboe, Robert Mcleonogh, Frank Elliott, Bill Hunt, Fred Harder and Ernie Tusterberg.

JOHN CUTHBERT

By winning the Toronto marathon, a nineteen-mile test, John Cuthbert qualified for the Canadian Olympic team in the "human horse" event. The race was run in a driving rain and Cuthbert's time of 1 hour 52 minutes and 14 4-5 seconds is considered good.

Mutrie Cup Golf On Sandwick Course

Courtenay, May 30.—In the semi-final round in the Mutrie Cup competion played on the Courtenay Golf Club's links at Sandwick between Charles Graham of Cumberland and F. C. Brook of Courtenay, both players completed the eighteen holes in 108 strokes, but victory goes to the Cumberland golfer, who received four strokes from his opponent. It is now certain that the Mutrie Cup, which is a trophy for semi-annual competition, will go to Cumberland, as the final round will be between Charles and Thomas Graham, of the coal town. The Courtenay Golf Club's links are now looking their best and a great number of players are enjoying the royal and ancient game here under ideal conditions.

Mrs. Mallory's game was lifeless. She showed touches of her old form only in a few short rallies while Miss Ryan played as well as she ever did, chopping and cutting fiercely.

Canadian Champion Hangs up Knockout

Estevan, May 30.—Jack Reddick, Canadian middleweight champion, knocked out Jack Williams of Minot, N.D., here last night in the third round. Reddick had a big advantage in weight and reach. For two rounds the fight was tame and did not speed up until the referee warned Reddick to fight or he would stop the affair. The champion took the warning to heart and in the third floored Williams for the count of nine. The knockout followed.

C.P.R. Nine Hand Bad Trouncing To Automotives

Score 14-2 Victory Over Mechanics in Free Hitting Game

After knocking three pitchers' offerings to every corner of the lot the C.P.R. ball squad handed the Automotives nine a 14-2 lacing at the Royal Athletic Park last night. The railroaders were in great form and played errorless ball behind fine pitching by Roy Copas who made his first appearance as a chucker. Roy only allowed the mechanics three scattered hits while five men retired via the strikeout route.

As a result of their win last night the C.P.R. are now occupying the premier berth in the league while the Automotives are in second place with the Eagles and Tillicums holding down the cellar berth.

Parfitt had been selected to do the hurling for the motor men and as it was his first appearance this season it was expected he would make a good showing. He only lasted until the end of the second inning when he was chased to the showers in favor of Roscamp. Roscamp was sent to the bench at the end of the sixth, his place being taken by Moser.

HALEY'S HOMER

The railroaders opened like winners. In the first inning. Falconer Campbell walked and Haley Jackson poled out a long hit to right field that went for a home run. It was the longest hit in the park this season. In the second frame the railway men added another four. Colin Campbell walked and Nachtrieb walked. More crashed out a two bagger to centre field scoring Campbell and Nachtrieb. Roy Copas hit another single. More coming across the rubber. Roy Copas scored on Falconer Campbell's single.

In the second the mechanics scored their two tallies. McCord doubled to right and scored when Featherstone duplicated. Roscamp batted for Parfitt and hit a hard one to right field, McCord scoring. He was the last Automotive batter to cross the rubber for the remainder of the game.

In the fourth the railroaders sneaked another lone tally across the rubber. F Campbell walked and scored on Jackson's long hit to right field. In the fifth they added three more, Nachtrieb was safe on a fielder's choice and More singled and R. Copas crashed one out to left, two runners coming in on the hit. Copas scored on F. Campbell's hit.

In the fifth it looked like the motor men would get another couple of runs when they got two men on with nobody away, but Copas tightened up and the next three batters retired in quick succession.

In the sixth the railroaders added another three, Richdale, Nachtrieb and Colin Campbell crossing the plate. In the seventh Richdale scored the last run when he came home on C. Campbell's long hit.

THE HEAVY SLUGGERS

Haley Jackson and Richdale were the railroaders heavy sluggers. The former secured a home run and two singles in four times at bat while the latter knocked out three safeties out of five trips to the plate. Roy Copas also secured two good ones out of four trips to the plate.

On Saturday afternoon at the Royal Athletic Park the Tillicums will take on the Eagles. The game will be called at 3 o'clock sharp.

Steve Donoghue is Wanted to Ride Tom Pinch in Derby

London May 30.—British racegoers are taking extraordinary interest in what mount Steve Donoghue is to have in the Derby, as the decision is likely to have considerable influence in the betting.

J. B. Joel's claim upon Donoghue is unquestioned and last night it was thought certain that Steve would ride Defiance. It seems, however, that Lord Woolavington is doing his utmost to persuade Mr. Joel to release the jockey for his horse, Tom Pinch. It is possible he may succeed. Lord Woolavington told The Daily Mail last night that the matter was not definitely settled.

Sporting Life, and some of the other authorities say the United Stat = jockey, George Archibald, the only one to have ridden Tom Pinch in public, has been engaged to ride the King's colt, Knight of the Garter.

Four Indoor Ball Games Are on Tap For This Evening

To-night's games in the Victoria and District Indoor Baseball League will practically complete the first half of their schedule. At present the Garrison are leading the league while the Tillicums and Hillcrests are both occupying the second berth, being one point behind the Tommies. A defeat for either of these teams will give the Garrison the championship of the first half. The games scheduled for this evening are as follows: Civil Service vs. Hillcrests at Macaulay Point; Priors vs. Naval Barracks at Canteen Grounds; Esquimalt vs. Y.M.C.A. at Central Park; Moore-Whittington Lumber Co. vs. Tillicums at the Royal Athletic Park. All games are called for 6.30 o'clock sharp.

The best game of the evening should be the one between the Hillcrests and the Civil Service. The latter team has been playing a fine brand of ball during the last games. Last week the Servants held the crack Tillicum nine down to a four-run lead and they expect to hand the Hillcrests a defeat. At the Canteen Grounds Priors will be taking on the Navy men on their home grounds.

Aquatic Queen Of New Zealand Was Visitor Here To-day

Miss Gwitha Shand Passed Through En Route to the Olympic Games

Miss Gwitha Shand, champion lady swimmer of New Zealand, en route to the Olympic games, passed through Victoria this morning aboard the Canadian-Australian liner R.M.S. Niagara. Miss Shand has a brilliant record as a swimmer in New Zealand and although she does not hold any world marks has equalled the world's record for the 220 yard swim, by doing that distance in 2 minutes 47 seconds, when swimming for the New Zealand championship.

Her career is a meteoric one her first efforts being made in 1917 when she won the New Zealand schoolgirl's championship for fifty yards in 47 seconds.

The accomplishment acted as an incentive and in 1918 she trained consistently and entered many races with the result that she won the 50 yards schoolgirls' championship of Canterbury, in 41 3-5 seconds; the 25 yards schoolgirls' championship of Canterbury in 17 3-5 seconds; the 75 yards schoolgirls' championship of Canterbury, in 60 seconds and the 100 yards schoolgirls' championship of Canterbury in 1 minute and 43 seconds. In the 50 yards and 100 yards schoolgirls championship, of New Zealand she came in close seconds.

In 1919 she confined her attempts to three events. These were the ladies championship of New Zealand, which she secured by doing that distance in 77 4-5 seconds; the 75 yards girls' intermediate championship, which she made in 58 1-5 seconds; and the 100 yards girls' intermediate championship of New Zealand, in 80 4-5 seconds.

The following year she lost her 100-yard championship, coming in second. The results were the same in the other two championships she had won. She came in second in them all. In 1922, however, she regained the 100 yards ladies' championship of New Zealand by reducing her previous record, making the distance in 69 seconds. That same year she won the 440 yards ladies' championship of New Zealand, in 6 minutes 41 3-5 seconds. This is her favorite distance and since winning it the first time has reduced her record by many seconds. She also regained her two intermediate championships.

That the 440 yards is her favorite distance is substantiated by the fact that the following year she not only retained her title, by reducing the time to 6 minues, 26 2-5 seconds, but also won the Honolulu championship, again reducing her time to 6 minutes 14 2-5 seconds.

Further success was hers in 1923 when she gained the championship of Australia for the 440 yards, in 6 minutes 9 1-5 seconds. She also secured the 220-yard championship of Australia, that year by making that distance in 2 minutes 54 2-5 seconds. She also came second in the 100-yard race for the Australian championship.

HAS SIX CHAMPIONSHIPS

Her present championships total six. They are as follows: the 220 yards championship of Auckland, 2 minutes 47 seconds; 100 yards championship of Auckland, 1 minute 5 1-5 seconds; 440 yards swim at Auckland, 6 minutes 8 seconds, again reducing her time; 100 yards ladies' championship of New Zealand, 69 2-5 seconds; 220 yards ladies' championship of New Zealand, 2 minutes 57 1-5 seconds and the 440 yards ladies' championship of New Zealand, 6 minutes 28 1-5 seconds. In the 200 metres swim her time is 2 minutes 52 4-5 seconds.

She will not give any exhibition swims en route as she is going straight through to the Olympic games, via the Canadian route.

Borg Appears At Gala In Victoria To-morrow Night

Track and Field Meet at the Willows in the Afternoon

Both Events Are Arranged to Raise Fund to Send Victorian to Trials

Arne Borg, Johnny Weismuller's rival, the famous Swedish swimmer on his way to the Olympic games, will be seen in action at the Gorge to-morrow afternoon. Although the V.I.A.A., as previously announced, are staging a track and field meet at the Willows in the afternoon, they seized the opportunity of Borg's visit here to give the local people an opportunity to see the smiling blond in action, and the proceeds of both events will be placed to the fund to send Cecil Hay East to take part in the Olympic trials.

Owing to the short notice of the events both swimmers and track and field men are urged to show up at the meets and make their entries on the ground. The track and field meet programme was announced yesterday. The meets starts at 2.30. An added feature at the Willows will be a boxing exhibition between Steuart, a recent arrival in Victoria, who made such a good showing in the light-heavyweight class in Vancouver and Woodley, clever local fighter.

The programme of events for the water carnival, which is to be staged to-morrow evening at 7.15 o'clock at Curtis Point, Gorge, under the auspices of V.I.A.A., in which Arne Borg, Swedish champion and world's record holder will compete is as follows:

Junior diving—Low board, three dives swallow, jacknife and plain dive.

Four hundred-yard race, in an attempt to break world's record—Arne Borg vs. four Victoria swimmers.

Centipede race in canoes, ladies—Three to a team.

Relay race, mixed, four to a team—Two girls and two boys.

One hundred-yard handicap, mixed—Any style swimming.

Canoe tug-of-war—Ladies.

Water polo game—Mixed teams.

Exhibition diving by George Cummings of Montreal Athletic Club, including flame dive for 30 ft. tower.

Looking Things Over

Word from inside sources is to the effect that the much discussed change to a lighter golf ball will be authorized shortly and will be put in effect with the start of the 1924 season.

An international whippet race will be held in June, the first of its kind. The fastest whippets in America will be pitted against the fastest whippets in Canada. Montreal will be the scene.

The British lion is in a snarly mood. Invading American golf professionals, meaning Hagan, Sarazen, Kirkwood, et al, had best proceed with caution.

First, old Ted Ray showed that he had returned to the zenith of his form by winning the first big match play tournament of the year on the other side.

Now news comes of the remarkable golf played by C. A. Whitcombe in winning The London Daily Mail medal play championship with a record-breaking score of 289.

Whitcombe hadn't been strongly considered previously. Ray, Duncan, Mitchell and Havers, the present British champion, were the feared ones. None of the critics mentioned Whitcombe of Dorchester. Whereupon Whitcombe unsheathed his irons and began to speak for himself.

Pancho Villa, the Filipino who holds the world's flyweight champion, says he prefers Broadway to any other spot in the world. And Pancho is married, too.

Manager Stanley Harris says that Pitcher Joe Martina, his thirty-four-year-old recruit, will win at least fifteen games for him this year and may reach the twenty mark in victories.

Takio Harada, newest tennis sensation of Japan, is said to be the best player ever produced by that country, not excepting Kumagae or Shimizu.

When you hole out in one Lady Luck is with you.

In almost the same proportion luck is with you when you hole out a mashie approach yards from the green.

Pat Doyle, a Metropolitan professional, holed five mashie shots during the Winter season in the South, one at San Antonio, one at Houston, two at New Orleans and one at Pinehurst.

All five of these mashie shots gave him 2s at par four holes.

The time used is Pacific standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, above the average level of lower low water.

Esquimalt—To find the depth of water on the sill of the dry dock at any tide, add 18.9 feet to the height of high water as above given.

MANY PASSENGERS HERE ON NIAGARA

Liner Docked Early This Morning; Over Six Hundred Aboard

Completing an uneventful voyage from the Antipodes, the Canadian-Australasian liner Niagara, Captain J. T. Rolls, docked here this morning at 7.30 o'clock. Captain Rolls had a strenuous forty-eight hours outside the straits, the vessel running into dense fog.

The liner brought in 220 first class passengers, 200 second class and 130 third class, making a total of 650 passengers. Accordingto information received by the purser the company's boats this Summer will carry lists ranging anywhere from 600 to 900 passengers. The Niagara's capacity is 950 passengers, and this total is expected to be reached this year with the British Empire Exhibition and Olympic games as a big drawing card ni Europe.

The passengers aboard the lines this trip included Miss Gwitha Shand, champion lady swimmer of New Zealand, en route to the Olympic games; T. Millear, prominent rancher of Australia en route to England, accompanied by Mrs. T. Millear and family; Brig.-Gen. Grimwade, accompanied by his wfe, en route to England and the Continent; Archbishop Redwood of Christchurch, New Zealand, en route to Italy; General Bramwell Booth, Adjutant Booth, Commissioner Mapp and Brigadier Smith of the Salvation Army, en route to England; A. H. Benjamin, prominent merchant of New York, returning after an extensive visit to Australia, accompanied by his wife, son and daughter; Dr. T. W. Lipscomb of Sydney, Australia, en route to England, accompanied by Mrs. Lipscomb and daughter, and Hon. and Mrs. George Fowls, en route to Toronto to attend the International Rotary Convention.

The Niagara brought 1,500 tons of cargo, comprising the last of the New Zealand butter shipments and a large consignment of pineapples from the Hawaiian Islands.

GENERAL CRITICIZES THE PROCEDURE IN CLEARING AT PORT

Passengers on Niagara Had Long Wait to Get up Town

Brigadier-General H. Grimwade, a well-known Australian business man, who arrived on the liner Niagara today from the Antipodes, criticized the long delay in clearing saloon passengers at this port.

General Grimwade has been here before, but he wanted to show his family the city during the two hours they were in port. The lengthy procedure in immigration clearance, which has been the subject of reference at the Chamber of Commerce recently, tried his patience, as it did that of many other passengers.

General Grimwade declared such delays impaired the record of the port, resulting in passengers remembering the port adversely during their travels.

He stated that it was more difficult for a British subject, apparently, to enter Canada than any one would credit, and made him feel like an alien when he came here. He hoped that some steps would be taken to rectify the procedure in the interests both of the passengers and of the business people of Victoria, who thus lost the opportunity to do business with the travelers.

HOOD HAS POWERFUL WIRELESS EQUIPMENT

Personnel of Staff Number Forty-Nine; Has Seven Wireless Rooms and Nine Aerials

Wireless operators and radio enthusiasts will be given the opportunity of seeing one of the world-best floating wireless radio outfits when His Majesty's ship Hood visits this port on June 21. The Hood is fitted with the most elaborate and up-to-date wireless equipment of any radio station afloat.

The personnel of the wireless staff numbers forty-nine and comprises Lieut.-Commander P. W. Bowyer-Smyth, R.N., fleet wireless officer; a warrant telegraphist, a chief petty officer telegraphist, four petty officer telegraphists, twelve leading telegraphists, twenty telegraphists and ten boy telegraphists.

There are seven wireless rooms and another special one situated on the bridge of the Hood. This room contains numerous keys and switching arrangements so connected that the instruments, both receiving and transmitting, in any of the seven wireless cabins can be controlled from the special room on the bridge.

Every wireless room is connected with the others by the means of buzzers which give internal communication to different parts of the ship.

Altogether, there are nine aerials on the Hood. It may be of interest to state that the main one consists of five miles of wire!

In addition to various and many special sections of wireless equipment, including direction finders, etc., this giant of the British fleet possesses eight transmitting sets and thirteen receiving sets.

The eight transmitters, we understand, include a 25 k.w. Poulsen arc set and a 25 k.w. Spark set, and from these, range right down to a 100 watt valve transmitter. The transmitting equipment includes a special telephony set.

ALWAYS IN TOUCH WITH LAND

When at sea, the last of the capital ships is never out of touch with land, and the high-power transmitting installation has maintained communication with coastal radio stations over a distance of 6,000 miles.

The thirteen receiving sets aboard range in wave-length from 100 to over 25,000 metres, and the Hood can therefore tune to signals from any wireless station in the world.

All receivers can be used simultaneously. It may seem to the reader that this is a bold statement—receiving different signals on thirteen different receiving sets with the use of only nine aerials—but this is done, however, by connecting two receivers to the one aerial, thus allowing of two-fold reception.

Not one of the thirteen receiving sets of the Hood or any other vessel of the Special Service Squadron has regenerative receivers that cause the aerials to oscillate, while the receptive range of the Vice-Admiral's ship—and most of the others for that matter—is world-wide.

Lieut.-Commander P. W. Bowyer-Smyth, R.N. fleet wireless officer aboard H.M.S. Hood, controls the working of all the other radio stations of the ships of the Special Service Squadron.

Vice-Admiral F. L. Field, C.B., C.M.G., is also a big man in radio circles. In November, 1919, he was appointed a member of the committee to advise the British Government on Imperial wireless telegraph communication. He is a very keen believer in wireless in its relation to the closer linking up of the British Empire and the expansion of trade.

Captain J. K. Thurn, of H.M.S. Hood, is also a wireless expert. He has his own specially designed receiving set aboard with him and in his spare moments he is a confirmed radio enthusiast.

M'RAE'S RECORD SHOWS HE IS NO FRIEND OF LABOR, OLIVER DECLARES, BARING NEW FACTS

General Wanted To Have All Unemployed Paid Not More Than Thirty Cents An Hour During Hard Times, Premier Tells Interior Miners; Says Hundreds of Working Men Lost Savings In His Port Man Swindle

By Times Staff Representative

Rossland, May 29.—Amalgamation of labor with General A. D. McRae's Provincial Party is like an attempt to mix oil with water, for the General's career has been one long record of exploitation in which hundreds of working men have lost their savings. With this blunt assertion Premier Oliver in his speech here this week, sought to show the absurdity of the Provincial Party and the miners of Trail-Rossland uniting as they have done in the nomination of a joint candidate.

"I call General McRae a political adventurer," the Premier declared. "And that is just what he is. Before he launched out on his new venture of politics he was a financial adventurer. I say that the so-called Provincial Party is a party bought and paid for by General McRae. It is simply a McRae party. Without General McRae's money and guidance it would not exist at all.

"This McRae Party, we find, is composed chiefly of Conservatives dissatisfied with the leadership of Mr. Bowser. The Conservative Party to-day is shattered by that dissatisfaction.

"This new party has spread about the country in the form of the Searchlight the vilest slander and lies ever published in Canada.

"What of the charges contained in the Searchlight? If they are true then members of the Government are liable to penitentiary terms of fourteen years. If they are true then it is the duty of the men who make them to lay criminal charges against us. This was the proper course. It was not necessary to build up a political machine to get at us. The courts were open to them. However, they didn't choose to lay charges against us and instead asked for the appointment of a Royal Commission to investigate their accusations. They got that Royal Commission but I don't think they expected it.

GAVE NO EVIDENCE

"During the proceedings of that commission," Mr. Oliver went on, "not one of the members of the Opposition who had been making insinuations and vague charges against the Government—I refer to Mr. Esling, of Rossland, who is in this audience, Mr. Hanes, of North Vancouver, Dr. McIntosh, now a shining light in the Provincial Party, and others—not one of them appeared to give evidence against us, to support the statements he had made in the House. The obvious inference, of course, is that the statements made against us in the House in connection with the Pacific Great Eastern Railway were made for party political purposes and not in the interests of a real inquiry."

Nor had the Provincials been able to produce a jot of evidence against the Government in the course of five weeks of investigation, Mr. Oliver asserted. "Either I must be an honest man or a clever rascal," he added, "because I was under cross examination for thirteen hours and they got absolutely nothing from me to support their charges."

GALLIHER IS SLURRED

Immediately after the close of the investigation, the Premier recalled, lawyers of the Provincial Party had rushed into the constituencies of the Province in an effort to convince the public, before the Royal Commissioner made his report, that the inquiry had been a farce, altthough the investigation had been conducted by the court which they had demanded.

"In making these statements about the inquiry being a farce," the Premier went on, "they are accusing Mr. Justice Galliher, the Royal Commissioner and a judge of long years standing, who has the universal respect of everyone who knows him, of being a party to the suppression of evidence."

But the strangest aspect of the whole Third Party movement, Mr. Oliver observed, was that in some districts it was receiving the support of a number of labor men. This in view of General McRae's attitude towards labor in the past, was not only amazing but amusing to the Premier.

THIRTY CENTS AN HOUR

As an illustration of the General's love for working men, the Premier recalled that during the period of serious unemployment a few years ago General McRae and other business men had come to the Government and proposed that it form a commission to handle unemployment.

It had been urged that the Government hand over to this commission the funds which it proposed to spend on unemployment relief.

"And," the Premier declared, "one of the General's propositions was that the proposed commission would not pay more than thirty cents an hour to the unemployed men for their work! That was the General's attitude towards working men."

Labor men, the Premier pointed out were strong in their opposition to the employment of Orientals in British Columbia industry. And yet, new figures which had just been compiled, he said, showed that the Fraser River Mills, in which General McRae was heavily interested, forty-five per cent of the employees were Orientals; and that in the Columbia Valley Mills, in which the General was interested, the Oriental employees represented thirty-five per cent of the total number of workers.

General McRae, the Premier admitted, had a perfect right to employ Orientals if he wished to do so but then to pose as the friend and saviour of the white man was rather funny.

LOST ALL SAVINGS

In the notorious Port Mann scheme promoted by General McRae, the Premier asserted, hundreds of working man had lost their life savings. He considered the Port Mann project one of the worst swindles in the history of Canada. The General it was true, had claimed to be an "inactive and unwilling" partner in this disastrous project but this was absolutely false, as the land records covering the scheme proved, Mr. Oliver declared. The Premier added that he would contribute $100 to the Rossland Hospital if anyone could show him where the General, in the Searchlight, ever admitted that he was interested in the Port Mann townsite as an owner.

"But I say, and I have the records to prove it, that General McRae himself purchased all the properties afterwards included in the townsite," the Premier charged as he produced land registry records and blueprints to support his allegation. One blueprint showing the lay-out of the townsite carried on it the signature of General McRae in letters about an inch high.

HUGE PROFITS

The General, Mr. Oliver went on, had paid $436,333.97 for his Port Mann holdings. Then he had sold a portion of the land to the Canadian Northern Pacific Railway for $571,410, this money being raised by the railway company on bonds guaranteed by the people of British Columbia. With the profits from the sale of other Port Mann land the General had finally received, $1,136,000 in excess of what he had paid for his holdings.

"Hundreds of working men put their savings into the Port Mann scheme and lost them," the Premier affirmed. "Labor men who are supporting the Provincial Party do not know these things or they would not ally themselves with the MaRae Forces."

ALL good things that serve the sweet tooth and tickle the palate flow to the land of Evangeline, that smiling, favored realm of Acadia, the setting of Longfellow's famous romantic poem, where the making of chocolate confections supreme by Moirs has added greater distinction to an enchanting locality.

Fruits, flavors, nuts and spices from the Orient, from tropical islands and the favored gardens of the world are gathered by Moirs. But all the enticing ingredients of Moir's chocolates are not tropic grown: some are Canada's very own— for instance, sweet clover honey and the rarest of syrups from our own abundant maples.

And when to these ingredients have been added the richest of Canada's cream and butter, is it any wonder that Moir's come to you—a veritable treasure box of the world's most delicious tit-bits.

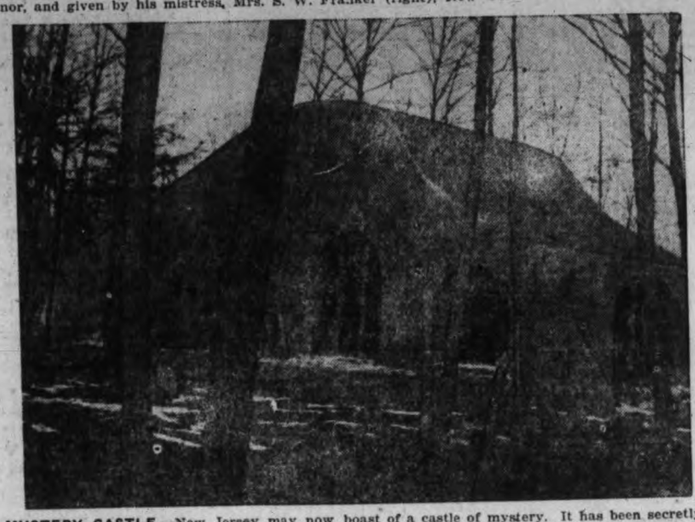
A SINGLE BULLET KILLED THEM!—Moonshiners are blamed for the double murder of Harry Ganster and his fiance, Leah Ellenberger, in the mountains near Marysville, Pa. The two, sweethearts since childhood, had gone into the mountains to pick wild flowers. This picture shows the way their car was found, with the girl dead at the steering-wheel. Ganster's body had fallen from the car. One bullet had killed both.

RADIO CAN NOW KEEP A SECRET.—John Hays Hammond, Jr., photographed in Rome, Italy, where he has entered into a contract with the Italian Government for the purchase of a radio device which permits secrecy in transmission and permits more than one message to be sent simultaneously on the same wave length. Denmonstrations in Italy brought to light that the device makes possible "narrowcasting," the opposite of "broadcasting," and long the dream of radio fans. Young Hammond is the son of the famed writer, educator, financier and diplomat, John Hays Hammond.

LIKE FATHER, LIKE SON.—A family of prelates, this! At right, Frederick C. Lawrence, who was ordained to the deaconate by his father, Bishop Lawrence (centre), while, at left, the Rev. William A. Lawrence, rector of St. Stephen's Church, Lynn, Mass. The occasion of the father performing the solemn ordination service for his son recently made a most unusual and impressive scene.

Motoring Friend (being shown new baby): "Ha, jolly little thing! Now, how many miles does this little beggar do to the gallon?"—Passing Show, London.

MOVE OVER AND GIVE ME SOME FROSTING!—Every dog has his birthday, as well as his day, but few pups get the party that Magnet Johnny Boy, aged four months, is here shown enjoying. Magnet, with a Boston terrier playmate is shown reaching the dessert stage of the party at which he was guest of honor, and given by his mistress, Mrs. S. W. Frankel (right), New York.



MYSTERY CASTLE.—New Jersey may now boast of a castle of mystery. It has been secretly built three miles north of Alpine, N.J., upon the cliffs of the palisades on the estate of Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Burnett. Over a million dollars has been spent on the work, which began three years ago. The castle, or buildings, rather, for there are five in number, are arranged in units. The cliffs on which the buildings stand are unscaleable, more than 500 feet to the top. The picture shows the dining-hall, a bright leaf-green, one of the units of the estate. One building is a laboratory where secret experiments are being carried on.

"His Master's Voice!"

WOMAN LABOR LEADER.—Miss Jessie Stephen, a prominent member of the English Labor Party, who contested South Portsmouth division at the last election and reduced the sitting member's majority by 9,000 votes. She is visiting Canadian cities.

RUSSIAN ORCHESTRA LEADER.—Serge Koussevitzky, the magnetic Russian musician who has been appointed conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

IN PARLIAMENT.—Lady Herrington, M.P., who is running a close second to Lady Astor in keeping the British Parliament stirred up over public policies.

NEARLY PREHISTORIC.—Above is shown the oldest automobile, a Cadillac, twenty-two years old, driven by Larry Condeaux, a native of Flushing, which is an object of interest during the town's celebration of its 150th birthday anniversary.

QUEEN'S RIBBON VETERAN SEEKS REDRESS BY BOARD

Veteran of Two Wars Asks Consideration From the Authorities

A further session of the Federal Appeal Board of the Soldiers' Pension Commission opened before a quorum of the board at the Court House, Bastion Street, this morning. Several cases are down for hearing, with Gerald H. Sedger appearing as soldier-advocate.

The case of a Canadian veteran who served in the South African war and also in the late war, came before the board to-day.

Alexander Martin, formerly private in the First Canadian Pioneer Battalion, seeks an appeal from the refusal of pension authorities to grant him treatment and allowances or a small pension. Martin served with the Canadian forces at South Africa, and holds the Queen's ribbon with four bars, including that of Paardeburg.

In the European war, though forty-one years of age, and in employment here as a janitor of the North Ward School, Private Martin joined up with a draft of the First Canadian Pioneer Battalion and went overseas in 1916. He was gassed at Ypres following the Sanctuary Wood and other engagements, and finally invalided out of the service at the close of 1917.

He asked for treatment and allowances, but was refused. Then he asked for a small pension to cover apartial disability which, he affirmed, remained aftre his war service. Both measures of relief were refused, and now the applicant seeks a reversal of that decision. Three or four other cases on an extensive waiting list will be heard during the present session of the board.

Boys Volunteer To Help Secure Y.M.C.A. Funds

In order to satisfy the mortgagees and do away with the indebtedness of the association, the Y.M.C.A. must gather $1,000 by to-morrow. The generosity of the many subscribers has placed the campaign fund within this amount of the desired total, but it is with renewed energy that the campaign officials face the final day which will spell either triumph or defeat.

The boys of the junior department of the association have volunteered to canvass the residential districts of the city to-morrow, and through their efforts officials hope to see the Y.M.C.A. placed in a position where it will be no longer in fear of tottering to a disasterous fall.

The association must receive $1,000 in cash to-morrow, and in new money. By "new" money, officials explained, was meant other funds than those already promised the organization in the "pledges" issued during the big drive some weeks ago. Final reports from committee men working in this last supreme effort to raise funds, will be heard to-day, and the total countings will be placed on record to-morrow at the conclusion of the boys' canvass.

Will Ascertain Opinion of Citizens On Lands Purchase

At the meeting of the reverted lands committee of the City Council, held yesterday, C. E. Yearwood waited on the committee and explained to them his plan for the creation of a taxpayers' company to take over the reverted lands of the city.

Members expressed their satisfaction with the scheme, and instructed him to take steps to find out whether the taxpayers would back the project. They assured Mr. Yearwood if the taxpayers would endorse the project, they would make a recommendation to the council in favor of assisting a transfer of the lands at a satisfactory price.

Dust-Covered Statue Hides Story of Sculptor's Blasted Hopes

"FAITH," THE MARBLE STATUE MADE BY MRS. EDITH OGDEN HEIDEL (RIGHT) AND THE PLACE SET ASIDE FOR IT IN THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MOTHER CHURCH STILL EMPTY.

New York, May 30.—In a stonecutters' uptown warehouse lies the statue of "Faith," an eight-foot figure of a kneeling woman in the purest of white marble. It is virtually buried under tons of stone, granite, marble and rotten timbers, forgotten even by its creator.

For seventeen years "Faith" has been hidden from view of man. For a number of years after the statue was assigned to its "living grave," its sculptor kept in touch with the management of the warehouse. She wanted to know that though the work was destined to ever be hidden from the public view that it would be kept in a safe place and have at least an annual scrubbing.

From time to time during the first five or six years of "Faith's" residence in the uptown warehouse individuals who had been interested in the creation of the statue and the placing of it in the Christian Science Mother Church in Boston, called at the stonecutters to again admire its beauty and discuss the strange story of its fate.

Nineteen years ago, Mrs. Edith Ogden Heidel, then Edith Hope Ogden, ambitious student of Augustus Saint-Gaudens, had her great moment. Barely out of her teens, this young sculptor was given the first big chance.

The illustrious Saint-Gaudens whom Mrs. Heidel went to see after she had been approached by the board of directors of the Christian Science Mother Church made only this comment, "I wish the opportunity had come to you twenty years later."

The Christian Science Mother Church in Boston wanted a statue of a kneeling woman, one personifying "Faith" in the purest of white marble. Mrs. Heidel won the $12,000 commission with the privilege of two years in Paris to complete her work. Thus in a literal blaze of exuberance and youthful stimulation she sailed for Paris to carve the masterpiece of her career.

Two years later Mrs. Heidel delivered in Boston from France the plaster cast of her kneeling woman typifying "Faith." The plaster figure was mounted above the organ in the Science Mother Church, the spot originally picked for the finished statue. For two days the members of the committee and the board of directors viewed the plaster from every angle and approved.

Mrs. Heidel was acclaimed. Still a young woman, her name was made in the world of sculpture. The committee ordered "Faith" cast in marble at once and an approximate date for the placing of the finished statue was set. Mrs. Heidel was paid the last of the $12,000. The books were clean. Everybody was happy.

And then "something happened."

Mrs. Heidel was informed that the statue had been refused by the committee. The marble statue awaiting shipment from New York to Boston was kept in the local studio "until further orders" which never came.

Word reached the sculptor that because of a ruling made by Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy that no statuary ever should be placed in the Mother Church in Boston or any other Christian Science Church, her statue had been refused.

Mrs. Heidel, to-day a resident of Washington, was told by the church committee that the statue was hers. But the creator was through. As far as she was concerned "Faith" might be added to a rock pile. Unless it could be placed on the organ pedestal for which it had been made then its creator cared not what became of it.

Edith Ogden Heidel was heartbroken and after a few years ceased to visit the warehouse of the New York sculptors where her statue was stored. Finally she stopped writing. So it was that "Faith" was left to die a living death forgotten by all, even its maker.

Mrs. Heidel refused to go into her studio for years. Her artistic life was ruined. She didn't care whether she ever picked up a chisel again. But the years, seventeen of them, have softened her.

She can tell the story now without crying and says she has a secret hope that maybe some day an official of a library or a museum, perchance, will see the ill-fated statue, like it—and find a place for it.

Many Aliens Are Being Smuggled Into Eastern U.S.

Montreal, May 30.—Immigrants smuggled by automobile across the Quebec border into the United States are filling Northern New York, Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine jails; organized bootlegging in aliens has been uncovered, stiff penitentiary terms are being handed out by United States courts to those caught, and the United States immigration service is strengthening its frontier patrols.

Such is the situation to-day as outlined by J. R. Clark, United States immigration commissioner in this district, who terms the problem facing his organization as "gigantic."

Mr. Clark pointed out that wartime passport regulations are still in force in the United States and that judges have the power to impose sentences for this offence of ten years in the penitentiary and a fine of $10,000.

PROSPECTOR FOUND SKELETON OF MAN

Bellingham, Wash., May 30. — "Death Valley Scotty," who with a number of Bellingham men went to the Cariboo country early in May to find gold, discovered the skeleton of a man, probably a prospector, near the banks of Cottonwood Creek. Apparently the bones, which were scattered, were those of a large man. No one in the district has any idea who the man may have been, says Turner Riddle, who was with Scotty and who is now in Bellingham.

MET GOODWILL AS COMMISSIONER

James Brown's Term as King's Church Representative in Scotland Ends

Edinburgh, May 30. — James Brown's term as Lord High Commissioner to the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland has ended. The old miner and his wife have returned to their humble cottage home at Ann Banks, automatically divested of their temporary titles and dignities, which by universal testimony they bore ably and with great modesty and dignity. In his farewell address to the General Assembly of the church "Jamie" touchingly testified to divine help in discharging his duties, and heartily thanked the members of the Assembly and the public for their unbounded kindness and goodwill.

"We have been received everywhere with open arms by all classes," he said. "Our visit has been a continuous pleasure, and the memory of our sojourn will remain with us as an abiding joy."

SIXTH
of the series dealing with the establishment of the Bank of Montreal at representative points in Canada and elsewhere

WEST OF THE GREAT LAKES

THE growth of the Bank of Montreal has closely coincided with the gradual development of Canada from a small colony to a great Dominion.

In the Bank's westward advance to the Pacific Coast, one of the important links in its transcontinental chain of Branches was formed in 1878 at Winnipeg, when the Bank opened its first Branch west of the Great Lakes.

This forward step, taken seven years before railway communication was opened up between Montreal and Winnipeg, made available to the incoming population on the prairies the stabilizing co-operation of a strong, conservative and at the same time energetic financial institution.

Of the Bank's 567 Branches, 12 are situated in Winnipeg and 180 in the Prairie Provinces, including Winnipeg.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily Feeds the Robins

(Copyright, 1924, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

By Howard R. Garis

Uncle Wiggily ate his breakfast in rather a hurry one morning, and, as he was hopping out of the hollow stump bungalow, without a hat on, Nurse Jane asked:

"Where are you going?"

"I am going to look at my little robins," answered the bunny gentleman.

"I didn't know you had hatched out any robins," laughed the muskrat lady.

"Of course, I didn't hatch them," chuckled Uncle Wiggily, "but, if you remember, I helped the father and mother robin get twigs for their nest, which is in the tree at the end of the path. Now that the little robins are hatched I feel like a grandfather toward them. So I am going to see how they are feathering out."

"Give them my love," called Nurse Jane, as Uncle Wiggily hopped down the path.

As the rabbit gentleman reached the tree in which the robins' nest was built the rabbit heard the father bird sadly singing and saying:

"It is too bad, my dear! Quite too bad. But we shall manage somehow, I am sure. I will work twice as hard! I'll manage."

Now don't worry any more, said kind Uncle Wiggily.

"But, Rob, my dear, you know you never can get enough bugs and worms to feed five hungry birdies—not if you had four wings instead of two. It can't be done! Oh, dear, why did I have to go and get hurt just when the babies need so much to eat?"

"Oh, ho!" whispered Uncle Wiggily to himself as he hopped a little nearer. "This sounds like trouble, and must help if I can." Then, looking up at Mr. Robin, who was sitting on the edge of the nest, Mr. Longears asked: "What's the matter?"

"Oh, hello, Uncle Wiggily!" chirped the redbreasted bird. "The matter is that Mrs. Robin has hurt one of her wings and can't fly. I hope it will be all right in a few days."

"Yes, but in those few days poor Bob will have to do all the hunting of worms and bugs for our hungry birdies," spoke Mrs. Robin from the edge of the nest, where she was resting her sore wing. "And how he can ever do it I don't see. They're crying for food now, Bob, my dear," she said.

Uncle Wiggily heard the little robins in the nest going "peep-peep!" and he knew they were opening wide their hungry mouths.

"I'll get a lot of worms and bugs for them," said the father bird, as he flew off to the green meadow. While he was gone Mrs. Robin sighed and said:

"He'll do his best, poor bird, but he never can bring home enough for the hungry birdies to eat. It is all we two birds can do, working together, to feed them. And how he can do it alone I don't see! Oh, such trouble."

"Now don't worry any more," said kind Uncle Wiggily. "I am going to help feed your little birds! That's what I'm going to do!"

"But how can you?" asked Mrs. Robin in surprise. "I know you are kind, but you can't fly up here with worms and bugs."

"I know I can't'" chuckled Uncle Wiggily. "But I can dig a lot of worms out of the ground with my feet, just as if I was digging a burrow. And when I dig the worms out I'll leave them here on the ground at the foot of the tree. Mr. Robin can easily carry them up to your hungry birds. And I'll get Nurse Jane to search in the grass and catch bugs in the coffee strainer."

"Oh, you are very kind!" said Mrs. Robin, and when the father bird came back a little later with a worm in his beak his wife told him what the rabbit was going to do.

"That will be fine!" sang Mr. Robin. "This will end our troubles, for with Uncle Wiggily's help I can feed the birdies until your wing gets well, my dear."

So it was done. Uncle Wiggily scratched and dug in the dirt with his paws, uncovering hundreds of worms, and Mr. Robin flew down, picked them up and carried them to his wife and the little birds. And Nurse Jane caught bugs in the coffee strainer, and Mr. Robin carried them up to his nest. It kept him very busy flying to and fro, for little robins need a lot to eat. But not having to hunt for worms and bugs saved the father bird lots of time.

And one day, just before Mrs. Robin's wing was healed, the Old Weasel slunk up in the grass, intending to jump on Uncle Wiggily and bite him. But the rabbit was digging in the earth for worms to feed the little birds. And when the Weasel tried to catch the rabbit Uncle Wiggily just scratched a lot of dust and dirt in the Weasel's eyes and nose and cried:

"Run away, Weasel, I'm busy. Don't bother me."

"Kee choo! Ker snoo!" sneezed the Weasel, and back to his den he ran, not catching the dunny rabbit at all.

Uncle Wiggily had a jolly good time helping feed the little birds, and when they grew big enough they sang him a song of thanks. And so did Mr. Robin, while Mrs. Robin hummed the chorus.

And if the lump of sugar doesn't go swimming with the goldfish, and forget to come back in time to have breakfast with the cup of coffee, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Hickory Dickory.

NEW SERIAL STORY

The Black Gang

By CYRIL McNEILE, "Sapper"

Author of "Bull-dog Drummond," "No Man's Land," etc.

"And what did you do, Zadowa?" The Reverend Theodosius's voice was very soft.

"How did you dispose of one or all of these men so that no suspicion is likely to rest on you?"

The hunchback rubbed his hands together gleefully.

"By an act which, I think you will agree, is very nearly worthy of yourself, monsieur. To shoot was impossible—because I am not sufficiently expert with a revolver to be sure of killing them. No—nothing so ordinary as that. They saw me watching them: 'I can see his eyes, Hugh,' said one of them to the leader, and I remember suddenly that in the passage not far from where I stood were half a dozen bombs——What is it, monsieur?"

He paused in alarm at the look on the clergyman's face as he slowly rose.

"Bombs!" he snarled. "Bombs! Tell me what you did, you dreg!"

"Why," stammered the frightened hunchback, "I threw one into the room. I no longer wanted it as an office, and.....Ah, heaven, don't murder me!.....What have I done?"

His words died away in a dreadful gurgle, as the clergyman, his face diabolical with fury, sprang on him and gripped him by the throat. He shook the hunchback as a terrier shakes a rat, cursing horribly under his breath—and for a moment or two it seemed as if the other's fear was justified. There was murder in the big man's face, until the touch of the girl's hand on his arm steadied him and brought him to his senses. With a last spasm of fury he hurled the wretched Zadowa into a corner, and left him lying there, then his iron self-control came back to him.

"Get up," he ordered tensely, "and answer some questions."

Trembling all over, the hunchback staggered to his feet and came into the centre of the room.

"Monsieur," he whined, "I do not understand. What have I done?"

"You don't need to understand!" snarled the clergyman. "Tell me exactly what happened when the bomb burst."

"It killed the three men, monsieur," stammered the other.

"Curse the three men!" He lifted his clenched fist, and Zadowa shrank back. "What happened to the room?"

"It was wrecked utterly. A great hole was blown in the wall."

"And what happened to the desk?"

"I don't know exactly, monsieur," stammered the other. "I didn't go back to see. But it must have been blown to matchwood. Only as there was nothing inside of importance it makes no odds."

"Did you look in the secret drawer at the back of the centre opening. You didn't know there was one, did you? Only I knew of its existence, and short of taking the desk to pieces no one would be able to find it. And you took the desk to pieces, Zadowa, didn't you? You blew it to pieces, Zadowa, didn't you? Just to kill the leader of this trumpery gang, Zadowa, you cursed fool!"

Step by step the hunchback was retreating before the other, terror convulsing his face, until the wall brought him to an abrupt stop.

"You blew the desk to pieces, Zadowa," continued the Reverend Theodosius standing in front of him, "a desk that contained the six most perfect diamonds in the world, Zadowa. With your wretched bomb, you worm, you destroyed a fortune. What have you got to say?"

"I didn't know, monsieur," cringed the other. "How could I know? When were they put there?"

"I put them in there this afternoon for safety. Not in my wildest imagination did I dream that you would start throwing bombs about the place."

"Perhaps they are not destroyed," stammered the hunchback hopefully.

"In which case they are now in the hands of the police. You have one chance, Zadowa, and only one. It is that those diamonds are in the hands of the police. If they are and you can get them—I will say no more.'

"But if they have been destroyed, monsieur?" muttered the other.

"Then, Zadowa, I am afraid you will share their fate."

Almost indifferently the clergyman turned back into the room, taking no notice whatever of the wretched man, who followed him on his knees begging for mercy. And then after a while the hunchback pulled himself together and stood up.

"It was a mistake, monsieur," he said quietly, "which I deeply regret. It was, however, you must admit, hardly my fault. I will do my best."

"Let us hope, then, for your sake, Zadowa, that your best will be successful. Now go."

He pointed to the door, and without another word the hunchback went.

"I'm glad you were here to-night, my dear," remarked the Reverend Theodosius. "I don't often lose my temper, but I very nearly killed that man this evening." The girl rose and came over to where he was standing.

"I don't understand, mon cheri," she said quietly. "What diamonds are these you talk about?"

The man gave a short, hard laugh. "I didn't tell you," he answered. "There was no object in your knowing for a time. I know your weakness where jewels are concerned too well, my dear; I got them the night before last in Amsterdam. Do you remember that Russian—Stanovitch? That wasn't his real name. He was the eldest son of the Grand Duke Georgius, and he had just arrived from Russia."

"The man who took that overdose of his sleeping-draught?" whispered the girl barely above her breath.

The Reverend Theodosius smiled grimly.

"So they decided," he remarked. "He confided in me the night before he came to his sad end what he had been doing in Russia. His father had hidden the family heirlooms from the Bolshevists, and our young friend went over to retrieve them. Most ingenious—the way he got them out of Russia. Such a pity he had a lapse with his sleep dope."

And now the Reverend Theodosius was snarling like a mad dog.

"By heavens, girl—do you wonder that I nearly killed that fool Zadowa? The coup of a lifetime—safely brought off. Not a trace of suspicion on me—not a trace. I know I said I wasn't over here on side-shows, but I couldn't be expected to let such a chance slip by. And then, after having got them safely into this country, to lose them like that! Why, do you know that one of them was the rose diamond of the Russian crown jewels?"

The girl's eyes glistened, then she shrugged her shoulders.

"They would have been unsalable, mon ami," she said quietly.

"Don't you believe it," snapped the other. "There are markets for anything in this world, if one takes the trouble to look for them."

He was pacing up and down the room, and for a while she stood watching him in silence.

"I'm glad I didn't know about them till now," she said at length. "I might not have stopped you killing him, if I had. And it would have been rather awkward."

He gave a short laugh, and threw the end of his cigar into the grate.

"No good crying over spilt milk, my dear. Let's go to bed."

But little Janet still stood by the table watching him thoughtfully.

"What are you thinking about?"

"I was thinking about a rather peculiar coincidence," she answered quietly. "You were too worried over the diamond to notice it—but it struck me instantly. The leader of this gang—this huge man whom Zadowa killed to-night. Did you notice what his Christian name was?"

The Reverend Theodosius shook his head.

"It was Hugh—Zadowa heard one of the others call him by name. Hugh, mon ami; Hugh—and a huge man. A coincidence, I think."

The man gave a short laugh.

"A very long one, my dear. Too long to bother about."

"It would be a pity if he was dead," she went on thoughtfully. "I would have liked to see my Hugh Drummond again."

"If he has been killed, if your supposition is correct," returned the man, "it will do something towards reconciling me to the loss of the diamonds. But I don't think it's likely. And incidentally he is the only sideshow I am going to allow myself during this trip."

Little Janet laughed softly.

"I wonder," she said, "I wonder. Let us, as you say, go to bed."

The prospect in front of Count Zadowa alias Mr. Atkinson was not a very alluring one, and the more he thought about it the less he liked it. Either the diamonds were blown to dust, or they were in the hands of the authorities. In the first event he had the Reverend Theodosius to reckon with; in the second the police. And for preference the police won in a canter.

He was under no delusions was the hunchback. This mysterious man who signed all his communications by the enigmatic letter X, and whose real appearance was known probably only to the girl who was his constant companion, so wonderful and varied were his disguises, was not a person whom it paid to have any delusions about. He paid magnificently, even lavishly, for work well done; for failure he took no excuse. Even long association did not mitigate the offence. With a shudder Count Zadowa remembered the fate of certain men he had known in the past, men who had been employed, even as he was now employed, one one of the innumerable schemes of their chief. No project, from the restoration of a monarchy to the downfall of a business combine, was too great for the man who now called himself the Reverend Theodosius Longmoor. All that mattered was that there should be money in it. Why he should be interesting himself in the spread of Communism in England it was not for Count Zadowa to inquire, even though he was the head of that particular activity. Presumably he was being paid for it by others; it was no business of Count Zadowa's.

And as he undressed that night in the quiet hotel in Bloomsbury where he lived the hunchback cursed bitterly under his breath. It was such a cruel stroke of luck. How much he had dreaded that first interview with his chief he had hardly admitted even to himself. And then had come the heaven-sent opportunity of killing the leader of the Black Gang in perfect safety; of making it appear that the three men inside the room, and who had no business to be inside the room, had blown themselves up by mistake. How was he to know about the diamonds: how could he possibly be expected to know? And once again he cursed, while the sweat glistened on his forehead as he realised his predicament.

He had already decided that his only method lay in going down to the office next morning as usual. He would find it, of course, in the possession of the police, and would be told what had happened. And then he would have to trust to luck to discover what he could. Perhaps—and at the thought of it he almost started to dress again—perhaps the desk was not utterly ruined. Perhaps the diamonds were there, even now, in the secret drawer. And then he realized that if he went to his office at 2 o'clock in the morning, it must look suspicious. No; waiting was the only possibility, and Count Zadowa waited. He even went so far as to get into bed, but Count Zadowa did not sleep.

Punctually at half-past nine the next morning he arrived at 5, Green Street. As he had expected, a constable was standing at the door.

"Who are you, sir?" The policeman was barring his entrance.

"My name is Atkinson," said the Count, with well-feigned surprise. "May I ask what you're doing here?"

"Haven't you heard, sir?" said the constable. "There was a bomb outrage here last night. In your office upstairs."

"A bomb outrage?" Mr. Atkinson gazed at the constable in amazement, and a loafer standing by began to laugh.

"Not 'arf, guv'nor," he remarked, cheerfully. "The 'ole ruddy place is gone to blazes."

"You dry up," admonished the policeman. "Move along, can't you?"

"Orl rite, orl rite," grumbled the other, shambling off. "Not allowed to live soon, we won't be."

"You'd better go up, sir," continued the constable. "The Inspector is upstairs."

Mr. Atkinson needed no second invitation. Taking no notice of the half-dozen clerks who had gathered in a little group discussing the affair, he passed along the passage into his own room. And the scene that met his eyes reflected credit on the manufacturer of the bomb. Viewed by the light of day which came streaming in through the great hole in the wall the ruin was complete. In the centre—and it was there Mr. Atkinson's eyes strayed continuously even while he was acknowledging the greetings of the Inspector—stood the remnants of the desk. And as he looked at it any faint hope he may have cherished vanished completely. It was literally split to pieces in every direction; there was not left a hiding-place for a pea, much less a bag of diamonds.

"Not much in the office, sir, which was lucky for you."

The Inspector was speaking, and Mr. Atkinson pulled himself together. He had a part to play, and whatever happened no suspicions must be aroused.

"I feel quite staggered, Inspector." His glance traveled to a sinister-looking heap in the corner—a heap roughly covered with an old rug. The wall above it was stained a dull red, and from under the rug stretched out two long streams of the same color—streams which were not yet dry.

"What on earth has happened?"

"There seems very little doubt about that, sir," remraked the Inspector. "I have reconstructed the whole thing with the help of your clerk here, Mr. Cohen. It appears that last night about twelve o'clock three men entered your office downstairs. They bound and gagged Cohen—and then they came on up here. Evidently their idea was burglary. What happened then, of course, it is hard to say exactly. Presumably they started using explosive to force your safe, and explosive is funny stuff even for the expert."

The Inspector waved a hand at the heap in the corner.

"And he—poor devil, was quite an expert in his way. One of the three men, Mr. Atkinson—or what's left of him, Ginger Martin—an old friend of mine."

For a moment Mr. Atkinson's heart stood still. One of the three men! Then where, in Heaven's name, were the other two?

"One of the three, Inspector," he said at length, steadying his voice. "But what happened to the others?"

"That is the amazing thing, sir," answered the Inspector. "I can but think that though three men entered the office downstairs, only Martin can have been in here at the time of the explosion." He pulled back the blood-stained rug, and with a shudder Mr. Atkinson contemplated what was underneath. He recognized the face; sure enough it was the man who had run around the room when he found himself trapped. But there was no trace of anyone else. The mangled remnants had formed one man and one man only. Then what, he reflected again—what had become of the other two? He knew they had been in there at the time of the explosion, and as he vaguely listened to the Inspector's voice his mind was busy with this new development.

They had been in there—the leader of the Black Gang and one of his pals. There was no trace of them now. Wherefore, somewhow, by some miraculous means they must have escaped, and the soul of Count Zadowa grew sick within him. Not only had the whole thing been useless and unnecessary; not only had he incurred the wrath of his own leader, and unwelcome attention from the police, but, in addition, this mysterious being whom he had thought to kill was not dead but very much alive. He had two people up against him now, and he wasn't quite sure which of the two he feared most.

Suddenly he became aware that the Inspector was asking him a question.

"Why, yes," he said, pulling himself together, "that is so. I was leaving this office here, and had removed almost everything of value. Only some diamonds were left, Inspector—and they were in that desk. I have somewhat extensive dealings in precious stones. Was there any trace of them found?"

The Inspector laughed grimly.

"You see the room for yourself, sir. But that perhaps supplies us with the motive for the crime. I am afraid your diamonds are either blown to pieces, or in the hands of the other two men, whom I have every hope of laying my hands on shortly. There is no trace of them here."

ACTORS ATTACK NEWSPAPERS AND THEATRE OWNERS

Pasadena, Cal., May 30.—Theatre managers and newspapers were assailed by actor-speakers at yesterday's session of the fourteenth annual convention of the Drama League of America.

That the daily newspaper is the greatest stumbling block in the American theatre's path of progress was the conviction expressed by Leo Carrillo, actor, who told his hearers the actor is habitually misrepresented by the press.

Milton Sills, motion picture actor and former teacher of philosophy, declared most theatre managers were equipped with no ideals and but a single thought, money.

NEW TELEPHONE EXCHANGE WILL OPEN ON SUNDAY

Gordon Head Will Have Facility For Substantial Extension

Alteration Has Not Been Made Without Controversy

The new Gordon Head telephone exchange, located at the corner of Tyndal Avenue and Feltham Road, practically in the centre of the new exchange area, will be open for service on Sunday evening, the cut order being made at 7 o'clock.

Various improvements which have been developed by the experience at the Belmont, Colquitz and Keating exchanges has been incorporated into the design of the bungalow which houses the operating room at the front, and residence quarters at the rear, with separate side entrance. The living quarters are comfortably planned, while a small garden is enclosed with sufficient land in case of extension, has been acquired with the site. The investment represents a cost of about $5,000. The property has a frontage of 150 feet, on Feltham Road, with the same depth to Tyndal Avenue, when that road is extended southerly.

The exchange will be placed in charge of an experienced operator, Miss Greaves, and she will have as her assistants the Misses Williamson, who have been in charge at the existing Gordon Head exchange, some distance north of the new location.

The reorganization of this exchange which had about fifty subscribers, was contemplated in 1916, but from one cause or another, delays have taken place, while the company has developed other connections in the Victoria district. To this list of fifty has been added about thirty transfers in the rearrangement of the boundary, and thirty new services ready to join up, making 110 at the opening of the exchange, with fifty or sixty more subscribers to be added as soon as the installations can be made. A potential development up to 500 subscribers will be possible in this exchange, F. C. Paterson, District Commercial Superintendent, states.

One of the great advantages which subscribers will secure will be all night service, as hitherto only emergency calls could be taken after ten o'clock.

THE CONTROVERSY

The change over of some subscribers from Cadboro Bay and Cedar Hill has occasioned some controversy, these subscribers being on the city exchange. The company took the natural boundary of the district from the Uplands along Bay Road to North Quadra Street as the southern boundary, rather than that originally planned of Lansdowne Road, which parallels in part the selected roadway. The new boundary leaves the sea at Cadboro Bay, and skirts the Uplands to Cadboro Bay Road, one reason being that it is the municipal boundary of Oak Bay and Saanich, but more urgently because the Uplands services are on a special lead, and the boundary from the golf links follows the Bay Road throughout. Houses on the south side of the roadway are attached to the Gordon Head exchange, and at certain points of close settlement, as at Shelbourne Street crossing, at Cedar Hill Road, and one or two other points the dividing line has had to be drawn to separate homogeneous areas.

EXTENSIONS POSSIBLE

As a consequence of the extension, it has been possible to give several areas from five to twenty houses service, one of the areas to be reached being at the foot of Mount Douglas, which was formerly entirely isolated from service, particularly along Lost Lake Road.

Another area to be served is that from Bay Road to opposite the Lake Hill School, which just misses service from Victoria exchange. One of the consequences of the new extension has been the erection of poles off the roads into private lands to serve two or three houses which hitherto had no service whatever, nor was it possible to give it to them.

There will be three telephone pay stations in the area: at the Cadboro Bay Hotel, at Hobbs's Store, Cadboro Bay, and at Mount Tolmie Post Office, Cedar Hill Road.

LIBERALS HAVE DONE GREAT WORK, CANDIDATES PROVE

bosses, who were given the money alloted their districts and who, too often, did not secure adequate value from their outlays, being inexperienced as road engineers.

TRAINED ENGINEERS

The Liberal administration had replaced these road bosses with trained engineers, who had cut costs, got more for the money expended and provided highly satisfactory highways, many completely rebuilt.

The much agitated West Coast Road to Port Renfrew was touched upon by Mr. Clearihue, who said the existing road up the coast was being gradually extended and completion was already in sight as a practical undertaking.

RESOURCES DEVELOPMENT

Mining and minerals were briefly touched upon. Mr. Clearihue declared that to-day this Province had the heaviest mineral output per capita of any country in the world, and the Government was actively working to increase this production.

Lumbering has under the careful fostering of the Liberals, increased 1,112 per cent in recent years, said Mr. Clearihue, pointing out that no Government should undertake development of any one section of the Province without a reasonable balancing of benefits to all the other portions.

"An adequate development of this Province means keeping our sons and daughters at home, and if you are going to barter your natural resources to speculators you are not going to attain that objective," he said.

QUESTIONS SCOTCHED

Gerald Cross asked, "Mr. Clearihue did you, or did you not, vote to raise your own salary in the House at the same time reducing the salaries of civil servants, and cutting fifty cents per day from laborers wages?"

Mr. Clearihue replied that the salary raise for members was made upon agreement by a majority of members, upon both sides of the House.

Mr. Clearihue also cheerfully admitted that the Liberal Government was printing the Galliher report, "and why not? surely the people are entitled to read that important document," he said.

Asked as to beer money and campaign funds, Mr. Clearihue declared he knew nothing of beer money and was unacquainted with any campaign funds whatever.

Chairman O'Halloran reminded the audience that, at the time the B. C. Legislature increased sessional indemnities, that course had been found necessary all over Canada and the United States, and declared the money had been well earned.

RECALLS BENEFITS

Samuel J. Drake, ex-Reeve of Oak Bay, declared that as a Liberal candidate he was not concerned with the past history of either the Liberal or Conservative parties. "Both have made mistakes, and our esteemed Third Party would make mistakes."

An optimistic outlook was the keynote of Mr. Drake's address. He pointed out that Canada's currency was worth within two per cent of that of the United States, while European stable nations of prewar days were finding their currencies worthless or nearly so.

"And the high credit of British Columbia, in times of such world disturbance, is a tremendous tribute to the Liberal Government," he said.

Mr. Drake declared that he was running on the Liberal platform on his merits as a business man. He touched briefly upon the freight rates handicap on British Columbia trade. "Hon. John Oliver is the first Provincial Premier to have the pluck to fight the entrenched railways on this issue. When he first took up this issue, the people of the Prairie Provinces laughed at him. Yet already we see wheat coming in for shipment by sea. And that result has come from only a small reduction in freights on grain, a fraction of what is involved in the great fight the Premier is carrying on.

The freight reduction fight is the greatest undertaking of the Government, and means more for this Province than anything else," declared Mr. Drake amid applause.

Mothers' Pensions and other social legislation was touched upon by Mr. Drake in outlining the progressive work of the Oliver Government, for which he considered the people owed thanks to the Liberal Party.

Between the addresses, Mrs. Mary McCoy Jameson, accompanied by Mrs. C. T. Conyers, rendered a number of solos to great applause.

STRESSES HUMAN RESOURCES

Dr. Melbourne Raynor feared that those entering the political arena this year would earn a crown of thorns as their reward.

His programme had to the forefront the conservation of the human resources of the Province. "I am concerned for the welfare of the boys and girls who are coming up to carry on after us," he said.

"Lloyd George has said 'We cannot have a great nation of a diseased people,' and I agree. It was a great shock, to many thinking people, when the war showed us that one-third of our young men were physically unfit. I want to do something to help this condition in British Columbia.

TORIES UNINTERESTED

"In the past two years of the McBride-Bowser Government we had no medical man at the head of the Board of Health. The official in charge was a sanitary inspector. I think that shows the amount of interest in human conservation which features the Conservative Party. The camps and the mines were in a deplorable condition, and the first thing Mr. Brewster did was to appoint Dr. Young, a Conservative, to the Board of Health, and so secure some wonderful work," said the candidate.

Dr. Raynor touched upon school dental clinics and inspections, rural nursing, venereal clinics and child welfare work; all new work, fostered by Dr. Young with the support of the Liberal Government.

Tuberculosis abatement and hospital assistance were also costly undertakings by the Government, he said.

From these important things our attention has been distracted by such matter as the P.G.E., but the work has gone on quietly nevertheless," he said.

MUCH DONE QUICKLY

Reciting a long list of social improvement measures, Dr. Raynor declared "all these, save workmen's compensation are to the credit of the past eight years of work by the Liberal Government, and due credit should be accorded by the people, for the time has been short indeed for the carrying out of such widespread improvement."

Dr. Raynor warmly supported the establishment of health insurance as a provincial undertaking.

"With everyone paying into a state fund a small percentage of his wages we can prevent much suffering and render easier the financing of our hospitals."

DRUGS, LIQUOR AND RACING

As a medical man he urged the essential need of anti-narcotic legislation, declaring that over a million addicts exist in the United States, and the young folk are especially in peril from the rapid growth of this evil.

The candidate earned applause when he declared himself as opposed to any slackening in the restrictions on the liquor industry, and regretted the holding of racing and betting at the Willows as bringing an undesirable class of visitor from the United States.

Incidentally he feared that more public interest had been aroused in the fight against animal diseases than could be stirred up on the vastly more important matter of suppressing the social evil.

GRAIN AND PROSPERITY

Henry C. Hall, K.C., declared that the freight rates' fight was incomparably the main issue of the present campaign. "Like many great events of everyday life, we do not at first realize the importance of this matter," he said.

"Victoria is not going to progress by taking in its own washing. Canada is merely a larger Victoria, she must progress by selling something outside. Now we have one chief product to sell outside, grain, and selling and handling that grain has grown to a big business.

"You from Ontario know that the progress of the manufacturing business of that province depends in the last analysis on the grain handling business.

"On a recent trip East I saw this fact, for the first time, in its true light, and at once understood why Winnipeg and further Eastern points are putting up such a fight against Premier Oliver.

"So it is not the railways alone we are fighting on this freight rates case, we are fighting the other parts of Canada. In fact, the railways will do as well or better by lowered freights and increased traffic. This, I note, that the success of Premier Oliver to date has already alienated the goodwill of many of the big monied interests of Toronto and Montreal.

"When this freight rates fight began, you could ship wheat from Calgary to the Atlantic seaboard cheaper than from Calgary to the Pacific seaboard."

AN INTERNAL TARIFF

"High or low tariff advocates will agree that no country should establish a tariff on trade between two parts of the same country, and that is what such discriminatory freight rates mean.

"We are entitled to have a share of the business circulating around grain handling, and that would not be spread over a thousand miles as in the East, but would be concentrated in such centres as Vancouver, Victoria and Prince Rupert," said Mr. Hall, pointing to poultry industry expansion as an instance.

PARTY INDIFFERENCE

"There are three parties before the people to-day, who must take a stand on this question." Not once in his history in the House has Mr. Bowser made a statement, in support of this fight, in fact he has of late poohpoohed it. So look not for a fight from him if you return him.

"Then comes General McRae; he has made no stand. His campaign has been one of villification and lower taxes. If he lowers the taxes of himself and his business associates you are going to pay more.

"Premier Oliver, through this freight rates fight, has of late become one of the outstanding men of Canada," declared Mr. Hall, who closed with an appeal for adherence to party lines in voting, urging the need of a clear mandate for some party if the old days of dickering for offices in exchange for support were not to return to this Province.

The meeting was marked by the close attention given the various speakers, the complete lack of personalities in the addresses and the generous applause accorded by the audience, especially to Mr. Hall's references to Premier Oliver's freight rates initiative, and it closed with the National Anthem.

TRUSTEE CHEETHAM OFFERS TO RESIGN

Saanich School Board Bickering Over Repair Bills

The committee of the Ward Four Ratepayers' Association of Saanich has endorsed the stand taken by School Trustee J. Cheetham in his claims that the repair work at various schools throughout the municipality was being done at an unreasonably high cost. The committee recommended that Trustee Cheetham offer his resignation in order to bring the matter to a climax.

Asked this morning as to his intentions in this regard, Trustee Cheetham said he contemplated doing nothing further.

The School Board were unable to agree with the stand taken by Trustee Cheetham, but it is thought that the matter may be brought to a satisfactory conclusion. Trustee Cheetham has checked the work done by the contractors on the schools personally, and finds that the work does not merit the cost. This is his complaint, and he is standing behind his convictions.

REVIVAL SERVICES

The current week's revivalistic services conducted by Rev. T. A. Sandall and Mr. H. Dillworth, under the auspices of the Full Gospel Tabernacle (Pentecostal), corner Pandora and Douglas Streets, concluded with very gratifying results.

The services were well attended. Special prayer meetings were held each night.

Last Saturday a party from the Young People's Society of the Sixth Avenue Pentecostal Tabernacle, one of Vancouver's largest young people's societies, came over to assist in the services. Miss Beulah Sledding occupied the pulpit at the morning service, while at the afternoon Mr. Saxon Sledding preached.

Other members of the visiting party taking part included: Miss Myrtle Kievell, soloist; Miss E. Myers and Miss M. Barnes, who had charge of various exercises of last Sunday's services, and Lionel Maddaford, pianist for the Dr. Price Vancouver campaign, who presided at the piano.

The services will continue throughout the coming week.
